GUILD AND DRAPER RENOMINATED BY REPUBLICANS

POLITICAL CRISIS SAYS LODGE

SENATOR LODGE.

Massachusetts Senator Declares Battle in This State and New York Is the Austerlitz of American Politics---Programme of Republican Convention Followed Without Protest.

At the Republican State Convention in Tremont Temple to-day, which renominated Governor Guild and the other incumbents of State offices, United States Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, in a brief but remarkable speech, declared that a grave crisis had been reached in American politics.

The extraordinary utterances of the Massachusetts Senator came when he placed in nomination Henry E. Turner of Malden for State Auditor.

But this speech, delivered by the master of the convention, whose slate went through without a single slip-up, was intended for the keynote of the campaign.

"American or Cossack."

Senator Lodge declared that the result of the next election in this State and in New York would determine whether the government in the two States would "remain American or become Cossack." Here is what he said:

"It would be no exaggeration to say that the coming elections in New York and Massachusetts will be the Austerlitz of American politics.

"It is no exaggeration to say that the coming elections in New York and Massachusetts will decide whether the government of these two States for the next year shall be American or Cossack.

They will determine whether those States shall move along the well-tried paths of order and liberty and free representative government, or become the prey of foementers of class hatred and of the outlaws and nomads of politics.

"The effect of Republican defeat this year in these two great States would be felt throughout the country, and would shake business stability and confidence in the future to their very foundations. A great responsibility, therefore, rests upon us. We seek no merely partisan victory, and we throw our doors open to all men of all shades of political faith who will join with us in defence of the good name of the State and of the principles upon which order and freedom alike are founded.

"No Concessions to Make."

"We have no concessions to make to the doctrine of those who for the moment have seized upon the Democratic party. We stand by our principles and beliefs without variation or shadow of turning, and we should be unworthy of any man's confidence if we were weak enough to palter with them.

"It is our duty to lay aside all personal differences, if any exist, and remember only that if we think alike concerning the republic we must so act and must wage our battle in perfect harmony and with unbroken ranks.

"In this same spirit we meet nominate, as we to-day are nominating, the tried and faithful servants of the Commonwealth, who not only as representatives of the good name, but in themselves and by their own characters and ability, command the approval and trust of the people of Massachusetts.

"FAITHFUL AND CAPABLE."

"Such a man it is now my privilege to present to you for renomination. He has shown himself faithful, capable, devoted to the interests of the Commonwealth. He is a lifelong Republican—a patriotic American, an honest man—a high-minded public servant. It adds to my pleasure in making this motion that I speak for an old and trusted friend. Loyalty and truth in friendship are good assurances for loyalty and truth in public service.

"This is a time of all others when we need those qualities in our public servants; when we need men not only efficient and honest, but men of resolution, and with the courage to maintain them.

"As a man possessing all those qualities and an honorable public record, I present to you the name of Henry E. Turner and move that he be nominated for auditor by acclamation."

FOUR DEAD, MANY HURT IN SOUTHERN TORNADO

HOUSES RAZED IN NEW ORLEANS; GREAT DAMAGE IN SURROUNDING COUNTRY.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 5.—A section of Louisiana one hundred miles wide was swept by a tornado shortly after 8 o'clock this morning and four persons were killed and many injured. Besides, many houses were blown down and other damage done to the extent of $200,000.

The storm was most severe at Pontchatoula, fifty miles north on the Illinois Central Railroad, where four persons were crushed to death and several injured. Damage to property there was also heavy.

In New Orleans the Jells skating rink, at Milan and Carondelet streets, was blown to pieces and the debris from it scattered in every direction. At Pine and Magnolia streets a house was demolished and a woman and child severely hurt. A factory at Trato and Magnolia streets is also reported to have suffered severely, several

The tornado crossed the river near Audubon Park, swept in a northwest direction over the city, crossing Canal street to the west side of Claiborne. It was preceded by a thunderous noise. Along its whole path of three miles or more in its city damage was done. Telephone and telegraph poles were prostrated, and communication with many parts of the city was rendered impossible. Debris strewn along its path put the Peters avenue car line temporarily out of business.

At Toledano and Saratoga streets a new market, in process of construction was levelled. Five new residences in that neighborhood were razed. A sign in Douglas square was picked up bodily and blown away.

Some damage was done at the old mills in the same neighborhood. A roadhouse at Liberty and Forstall streets was blown down. A heavy iron car there was turned upside down.

10 KILLED, 40 HURT IN SUBWAY EXPLOSION

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Nine persons, five of whom were workmen and the remaining four passers by, are known to have been instantly killed in a terrible explosion of sewer or illuminating gas in the Market street subway at Sixth street at 9:40 this morning. Another died later. About forty others were injured, some perhaps fatally, and property for squares around was badly damaged by the force of the blowup. The dead are now in the morgue.

The force of the explosion was felt for squares, and property was damaged to the extent of $500,000 in adjacent streets.

Fourteen Injured Taken to Hospitals.

Fourteen men are in hospitals suffering from injuries in the explosion, and there are probably dozens more who have been injured, of whom the police have heard nothing.

It is believed that there are at least seven laborers in the "hole," as it is called by the workmen.

They were about to quit work when the explosion occurred, but had no means of escape. Caught like rats in a trap, they were either killed at once by the force of the explosion, the falling timbers or by suffocation.

BUSINESS SECTION WRECKED.

The whole section of the business part of the city on Market street, between Fifth and Seventh streets, was completely wrecked.

Pedestrians and subway workers, those who were going off and coming on duty were hurled high in the air. Street cars were lined on the tracks, and many squares away were seen dying to the ruin. Hundreds of men and women were bruised and cut, some of them dangerously, by the glass which fell from every window in every building in that part of the city.

Within three minutes after the explosion occurred the bodies of six men had been dragged away from the verge of the hole and were lying on the south side of Market street. Only one of these was a employe of the firm which is doing the subway work. All the others were pedestrians, apparently on their way to places of employment.

Fire Follows Explosion.

Immediately following the explosion flames leaped higher than the buildings, and it was only because of the action of half a dozen men that the flames were rescued from the hole and dragged to the sidewalk, where the patrol wagons arrived them to the hospitals.

When the explosion occurred, planks, horses and trolley cars were hurled into the air and came down in a jumbled mass.

Trolley cars, which had been lifted by the tracks by the force of the explosion were stalled just where they dropped and one of them had two three-inch planks through the roof and extending almost to the floor of the car. Not a whole pane of glass was left in the car. Several were passengers were severely injured, while others fainted. The men rushed to the street and were lost in the crowd which soon gathered.

HEARST DEFIES M'CARREN IN KINGS COUNTY

Independence League Ticket Stands in Brooklyn; Result for Citizens to Decide.

CHATHAM, N. Y., Oct. 5.—W. R. Hearst, Independence League candidate for Governor, with a Democratic indorsement, threw down the gauntlet to Patrick H. McCarren to-day and decided that so far as he is concerned the result in King's County in this Fall cuts no ice with him.

Even though the count may go 75,000 against him, Hearst is adamant in his declaration that his third ticket stays in the field in King's County.

He said:

"The question of whether Brooklyn goes 75,000 one way or the other is for the citizens of Brooklyn to decide and not for McCarren to decide.

"I have the utmost consideration for the wishes of citizens of Brooklyn and none whatever for the wishes of Mr. McCarren.

"In placing an independent ticket in the field in Brooklyn we are doing what we believe to be for the best interests of the citizens of Brooklyn.

"Mr. McCarren calling himself a Democrat doesn't make him a Democrat. If he should call himself an honest man it would not make him an honest man. If he should call his ticket a good ticket it would not make it a good ticket.

"As a matter of actual fact, the McCarren ticket cannot command the support of honest Democrats or honest independents."

WAGE EARNERS INDORSE BROWN

TAUNTON, Mass., Oct. 5.—At a meeting of the Wage Earners' Club last night E. Gerry Brown received the unanimous indorsement of the meeting for Lieutenant-Governor. The matter of indorsing John R. Moran for Governor was laid on the table until Thursday evening.

PLACE ON BENCH FOR VERMONT MAN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The President to-day appointed Charles H. Robb of Vermont, at present Assistant Attorney-General, to be Associate Justice of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia, to succeed Justice Duell, resigned.

GUILD NAMED; NO HITCH IN PROGRAM

There was no slip-up, no break in the Republican State Convention programme to-day. The whole matter was arranged by Senator Lodge and other party leaders, who are adepts in that sort of thing, and the slate went through with a rush. The convention was called to order at 10:20 o'clock and it adjourned at 1 o'clock. Hardly, so far as outward appearances went, was the watchword.

This is the ticket that was nominated, each candidate being chosen by acclamation:

For Governor—CURTIS GUILD, JR., of Boston.

For Lieutenant-Governor—EBEN S. DRAPER of Hopedale.

For Secretary of State—WILLIAM M. OLIN of Boston.

For Treasurer and Receiver-General—ARTHUR B. CHAPIN of Holyoke.

For Attorney-General—DANA MALONE of Greenfield.

For Auditor—HENRY E. TURNER of Malden.

Former Governor Bates was permanent chairman. He made a speech an hour long. He was frequently applauded. He praised President Roosevelt and Senators Lodge and Crane, and made excuses for the trusts.

Chairman Thomas Talbot was followed by the platform by Senators Lodge and Crane and Congressman Lawrence and Greene.

Five minutes later the convention was called to order and Secretary Flanders read the call. Rev. Mr. Sayes then offered prayer, the delegates standing.

Colonel Talbot was chosen temporary chairman and the secretaries of the State committee were named as secretaries of the convention.

Moody Gets Applause.

On motion of Hon. Alan Bullock of Lancaster, a committee on credentials was named, and on motion of Council A. H. Goetting of Springfield a committee on permanent organization was appointed.

When Attorney-General Moody rose in the balcony to move the appointment of a committee of resolutions he was heartily applauded. A committee on ballots also was named by the chair.

Colonel Goetting read the report of committee on permanent organization and a committee of three was appointed to escort ex-Governor Bates to the platform.

As the ex-Governor ascended the platform the assemblage arose and applauded.

At the conclusion of the speech of former governor Bates, Attorney-General Moody read the platform, which was unanimously adopted.

Congressman John W. Weeks of Newton played Governor Guild in nomination, and the Governor was chosen by acclamation to head the ticket.

Ex-Speaker Louis A. Frothingham moved that a committee of three be appointed to escort Governor Guild to the platform. The chair named Mr. Frothingham, Hon. Willard Howland and Hon. Charles N. Barney.

When Governor Guild appeared on the platform the delegates rose in a body and gave him three cheers.

At the close of Governor Guild's address Hon. Melvin O. Adams of Boston placed in nomination for Lieutenant-Governor the name of Eben S. Draper.

Mr. Adams, referring to the Democratic convention of yesterday, told the delegates that they must realize that all convention discords would be healed before election and that each and every Republican must work.

Alfred Pinkerton of Worcester nominated Colonel William M. Olin for Secretary of State and Colonel Olin was chosen by acclamation.

Draper Addresses Convention.

Lieutenant-Governor Draper at this point was escorted to the platform and thanked the convention for the honor again conferred.

Former Attorney-General Herbert Parker nominated Arthur B. Chapin of Holyoke for State treasurer, and Mr. Chapin was named by acclamation.

Cheers greeted Senator Lodge when he arose to name Henry E. Turner for auditor.

Mr. Turner was nominated by acclamation, and Hon. Charles G. Washburn, of Worcester, took the floor to name Hon. Dana Malone for the position of Attorney-General.

Mr. Malone was unanimously nominated, and the convention then adjourned, at 1 o'clock.

SALIENT FEATURES OF THE REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

We record again our confidence in the courage, wisdom, honesty and patriotism of Theodore Roosevelt, President of the United States.

Because the Governor has met every question that has called for executive action with courage and a scrupulous regard for the public weal * * * we approve the administration of Curtis Guild, Jr.

We declare our unwavering adherence to the historic Republican policy of tariff protection of American industries and labor.

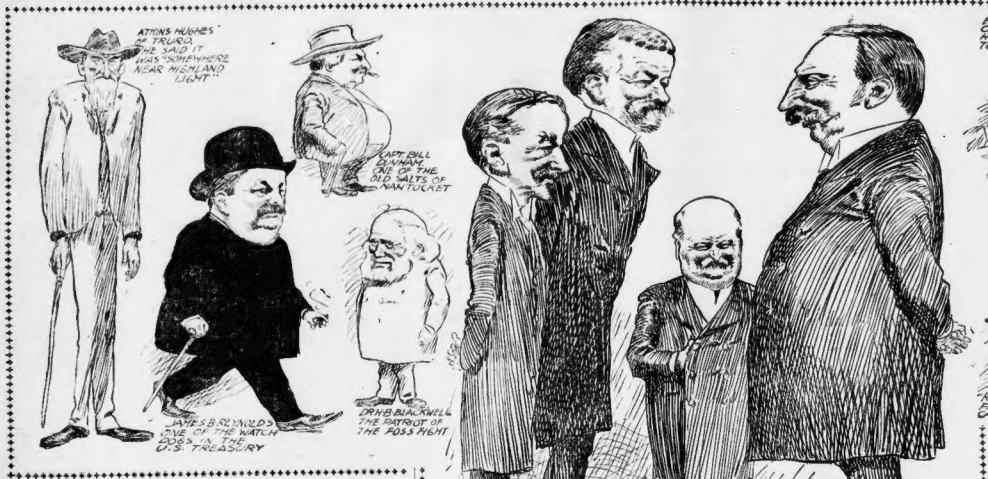
We are opposed to the ownership of the railroads by this State or the national government.

We condemn alike the rule of the mob and the atrocious crime which frequently provokes it.

We heartily approve the efforts of President Roosevelt to devise a just and effective method for building up a strong merchant marine and indorse the action of the United States Senate in passing the shipping bill.

We most emphatically approve the work of Attorney-General Moody, especially his earnest and successful efforts to carry out the provisions of the anti-trust and interstate commerce laws.

CHAIRMAN BATES MAKES EXCUSES FOR TRUSTS



EX-GOVERNOR WIELDS GAVEL IN CONVENTION DOMINATED BY LODGE.

Ex-Governor John L. Bates, permanent chairman of the convention, said in part:

"Double, double toil and trouble;
Fire burn and cauldron bubble."

"This is an age of unrest. The agitator is abroad. The upheavals of nature on the shores of the Pacific are but indicative of the upheavals in our social, political and business world. Trusts, investigations, indictments, theories, schemes, reorganizations and mark robes are all having their day, until the confidence of some in the honesty of humanity is shaken, and a pessimistic, growling pessimistic, look forward with apprehension to the future.

Mr. Bates, after a criticism of the principle of government ownership, a eulogy of the work of President Roosevelt, Senators Lodge and Crane in national legislation, praised Governor Guild in the following terms:

Guild Conscientious.

"Governor Guild has been conscientious in every official act.

"His generous nature has been evidenced by his solicitude for the welfare of all the people. He has set bounds to corporate aggression, and has ably and fearlessly discharged the duties of his office, however grave and distressing at times they may have been, and his entire administration has been conspicuous for its loyalty to the spirit of the Old Bay State. In the coming election the people will not fail to recognize the merit that rests upon years of honest achievement of useful results."

Referring to the trusts, Mr. Bates said:

"The great trusts of our time, at which every man throws a rock and shakes his fist, are not the result of legislation made for their benefit, are not the product of tariff laws, but are rather the result of the aggressive disposition of men in the expansion of their business, an expansion that was formerly limited by distance and the inability of men to be in two places at one and the same time.

"Just at present there seems to be a tendency to urge that any man associated with the development of great corporate interests must be a knave, and that every one in public life is to be suspected and to be regarded with suspicion.

"Office holders, hated by their friends as statesmen, and by all others as politicians, are peculiarly the targets of such antagonisms; but it remains true nevertheless that the great Republic stands not only as a monument to the valor of the men who fought for her battles amid the storm, but also to the ability of the great men who have served her with an eye single in her welfare on the judicial bench, in her legislative halls, and in her executive chamber."

"Inventions Due to Capital."

"The inventions that are to-day the servants of every business man are responsible for the aggregations of capital and the centralization of great industries. They have made possible the introduction of great economies, and the production of the necessities of life at a much reduced cost.

"In their growth these aggregations have crowded the small trader, interfered with the development of private enterprise and endeavored to stifle competition.

"This has been one of the chief causes of unrest and will continue to be so until the public is satisfied that proper remedies have been applied, and that the people are getting their share of the benefits naturally incident to the products of the inventive genius of the human mind."

PENOGRAPHS OF G. O. P. CAMPAIGNERS IN TOWN FOR CONVENTION

Pres. of Boston was the cause of much glee, and acting upon the exhilaration of the occasion the delegates made but little of his agitation for reciprocity.

Draper Triumphs Over Foss.

Attorney General Moody came on from Washington for one performance only, and he read the platform as if it was original. The name of the next author, Senator Lodge, did not appear, it looked so natural for Moody.

Congressman John W. Weeks of Newton had the heavy part, that of naming Governor Guild, and in assuming it he made us forget the past slight inflicted upon him at the State House.

Colonel Melvin O. Adams played the part of sponsor for Lieutenant-Governor Draper without any slip-ups. It appeared to him as if he was performing a duty like the candidate for past party services when the Colonel was in the running.

There was an expression of regret when it came to ex-Governor John D. Long's part of the performance, but, like all big stars, whether on the opera or lecture stage, he had to be unable to assume his part, so the duty fell upon ex-Senator Pinkerton of Worcester, who named Secretary William M. Olin.

Parker Names Chapin.

State Treasurer Arthur B. Chapin of Holyoke was named by ex-Attorney-General Parker, and then followed Charles G. Washburn presenting the name of Dana Malone for Attorney-General.

Then came the star performer, Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and it seemed as if all the applause and enthusiasm was preserved as well as reserved for him.

The Senator did not have a hard task assigned to him, that of naming Henry E. Turner for State auditor, so he gave as a one dish a monologue on the Democratic convention.

Lieutenant-Governor Draper made a speech to the convention, and after all the candidates had been named the curtain went down on the Republican drama at 1:10 p. m.

FAILS TO FILE BOND, PAYS FINE OF $100

Frank Mackewicz, who lives on Fraher street in Hyde Park, and familiarly known as a "money broker," was fined $100 and cost in the first session of the Municipal Criminal Court today for neglecting to file a bond with the State Treasurer before taking money for transportation to foreign countries. He paid the fine.

MORAN AND HEARST MEN OF THE HOUR

—PROFESSOR HOLMAN.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 5.—Professor C. V. R. Holman, a well-known Democrat of this city, lecturer on mining at the University of Maine and a former member of the faculty of Boston University, said to the BOSTON AMERICAN to-day:

"Neither prophet nor descendant of prophets, I nevertheless feel that I may, without immodest pride of opinion at this time, repeat the concluding sentence of my communication printed in your issue of July 20th last, appreciative of John R. Moran's candidacy for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination which reads:

"He is as much the man for the hour in Massachusetts as William Randolph Hearst is the man for the hour in New York."

"These two candidacies blaze a straight trail through the wilderness of corporate and plutocratic concentration of corruptec power in to which the American people have wandered these past forty years back to firm and fundamental control by the yeomanry of the nation; of the efficient functional service of all departments of our government, Federal, State and municipal. Backed as they are by the resolute and intelligent determination of an awakened people, in their ultimate success rests the hope of a regenerative reconstruction and purification of our sadly shattered frame of representative civil government."

GUILD ACCEPTS; SPEAKS OF "CRISIS"

Governor Guild, in accepting the nomination, said:

"I thank you most sincerely for this proof of your trust and confidence. I am a Republican because I believe, as you believe, that progressive legislation not in one but in every direction has been and can be best promoted through the instrumentality of the Republican party, which has ever stood fast, not only for its own principles, but for the basic facts of popular government; for equal rights to all, regardless of race or creed; for good faith in finance; for the upholding of the national honor abroad as well as at home, and above all, for resistance alike to the rule of the autocratic or the rule of the mob, in the maintenance of ordered liberty under the law.

"Record of Year Before You."

"Those whom you have entrusted with high office have been left to act as judgment and conscience dictated. The record of the year is before you. Be fair in his duty, he is false to his oath of office who seeks by the manipulation of that office merely the promotion of his own personal fortunes.

"One year ago you chose me as your candidate for Governor, and the people at the polls saw fit to ratify your choice. Whether I have filled worthily that high trust is not for me to say. But I am sure that I may with propriety be permitted to rejoice that this renewed expression of your approval has been vouchsafed by decisive open discussion not only of my official acts but of my personal convictions on public questions.

"No Question As to the Issue."

I agree-fine further and most profoundly that with the other members of this year's administration I have been called to serve you at a crisis when we have a right to appeal not only to those who stand by our party principles but to those who would defend the essential conditions of ordered government.

"There can be no question of the issue. At every such trial the metal of the American people has rung true.

"Not only Massachusetts, but New York, too, shall proclaim that not as yet has liberty degenerated into license, that the men who saves his earnings is to be protected in the enjoyment of the results of his frugality, that neither corporate influence nor unbridled clamor can break down the sober rule of order and of law, the first condition of the enduring welfare of any nation."

REPUBLICANS HELD TAME CONVENTION

For lameness the Republican convention was a gem. The day's programme had been rehearsed until each actor in the convention knew its performance as well that there was not a slip-up.

Ex-Governor Bates made his bow to the delegates but his speech was not as electrifying as was expected, for the position of placing the Governor in charge of the convention of his rival did not give him the inspiration had the honors been going his way.

All the big guns of the party were present with the exception of Ex-Governor John D. Long, whose place was taken by Ex-Senator Alfred S. Pinkerton of Worcester.

There were two jokers in the convention, Ex-Senator Pinkerton, who related the story of Mary Ann and Abraham, which made the convention laugh so loud as to make the furniture creak. The ex-attorney general's effort was equally as antiquated, but the Republicans believe in the old and not the new; therefore they applauded without recognizing the age of the effort. The triumph of Draper of Hopedale over Foss of Boston was the cause of much glee, and acting upon the exhilaration of the occasion the delegates made but little of his agitation for reciprocity.

SAYS BOY ACCUSED OF MURDER WAS UNCOMPLAINING VICTIM OF INSANE PARENT

GIRL WHO KNEW YOUNG MEIKLE BEST SURE HE NEVER KILLED FATHER

MISS GAUDREAU, WARMEST FRIEND OF YOUNG EDGAR MEIKLE, ASSERTING HER BELIEF IN HIS INNOCENCE

Posed by Miss Gaudreau especially for the Boston American.

"It is an outrage for them to lock up that innocent boy."

"He loved his father with the loyalty of a dog, in spite of the parent's insane acts toward him."

"I have watched him since he was a child, and I will do everything in my power to uphold my thorough belief in his innocence."

"No words can express my scorn for those who are persecuting this lad on insufficient grounds."

"I would be ready to head a petition or a delegation and apply to the right quarter for Edgar Meikle's release on bail."

Asserts Man's Mind Was Unhinged by Brooding Over Wife's Death—Made Boy Stay Out All Night if Not In by Certain Hour

MISS DELIA GAUDREAU, nineteen years old, of Congress street, Lynn, a neighbor of fifteen-year-old Edgar Weston Meikle, the Lynn boy who is in the Salem jail on the charge of killing his father, to-day declared to the BOSTON AMERICAN that the boy has been persecuted; that the reason he remained away from home during the three nights previous to the killing of the boy's father was due to the lad's fear that his parent would, in an insane rage, kill him, and also that his father had closed the door to the boy when he wanted to come home to sleep.

"I have watched Edgar grow up from a little boy," said Miss Gaudreau to-day, "and I shall do all in my power to prove before court of law what is my honest belief and conviction—that he is innocent of killing his father. I shall start a petition if necessary. I will never rest until the boy is free."

Miss Delia Gaudreau is an extraordinary young number of a forceful, sympathetic family that knew young Meikle perhaps better than any other family in Lynn. It was to her and hers that he went for advice and discussed his father's growing mental trouble, and she says "Edgar always told the truth about everything, even if he were in the wrong."

By Miss Delia Gaudreau.

I WOULD gladly be one to start a petition, if a petition would be of any service, or head a delegation if that would assist and apply to the right quarter for alleviation of the condition of that innocent boy, Edgar Meikle, locked up on a groundless charge of having murdered his father. Or at least a request could be made to let him out on bail, as they did with Mrs. Cooper in Maine.

Besides, I can explain a great many things which to date have been held as inexplicable. For example, they set forth that for several nights preceding the shooting Edgar slept away from home, they know not where. I know where and I know why.

His father became more insane with the passing days. True, he was to be pitied, because it was from grief for his wife, ten years dead. He became so exacting that he closed the door of his own home against Edgar if the boy chanced to remain out after 8:30. That is why the boy did not sleep at home those nights. Loving his father as faithfully as a dog, Edgar never demurred at his parent's insane acts, but instead crept off into Boston street, and, it being warm weather, hid himself in one of the unfinished houses being built by Mr. Dineen.

Boy Never Complained.

We would have cared for him, only he never complained or wanted to make trouble for anybody, but accepted the inevitable. And there he was, half fed, half housed, the uncomplaining victim of a father who was insane, though loving the lad in an unexplainable way. The boy was sick until he was actually not able to go to school, living on canned goods, doing his father's housework and being continually scolded.

If he started toward the door his father would say:

"Now don't you go away from this house, Edgar. If you do I shall punish you."

Perhaps Edgar would answer: "I am just going over to Mr. Gaudreau's."

At even this the father was liable to fly into a rage, and his frequent comment would be:

"Well, you be in this house at the 9 o'clock bell or you will sleep out of doors."

And this one incident would be enough to upset Mr. Meikle for the balance of the night, so completely was his mind disordered.

Notwithstanding this, the boy would meet his father returning home from work and endeavor him playfully, and never, no never, made a saucy or even flippant reply when his father scolded for some fanciful thing.

Not Habitual Truant.

Edgar was not an habitual truant, as his teachers can tell, but they weren't called at the inquest. It looked to me as though the State police didn't want to hear anything in favor of the boy.

On the hydrant across the street in front of his home young Meikle would sit hours at a time, alone and seemingly friendless. Edgar wouldn't run away up the street and join the gang and he wouldn't make fun at the expense of others, but he just attended to the house and went to school, I don't believe he left school much, and I know he obeyed his father.

A good many didn't understand their relations. Charles Meikle was a strange man and of course of unsound mind, but he loved his son and wanted him to be educated and make something of himself, as he always said. But while loving the boy he still would become angry with the lad if anything went wrong. I have known him to strike Edgar many times, sometimes for nothing, and once he beat Edgar with his fists, but Edgar never talked back to him. He would say nothing and treat his father afterward just as though nothing had happened.

Knew Father Wasn't Right.

The boy knew his father wasn't right in the head. But he also knew that his father was working, striving and saving for his future, and he appreciated that. In all the talks I have had with Edgar he always had a kind word for his unfortunate father. You could never get him to say one thing against his parent.

As to for missing rent money, it is not for me to say who got it, but that was four years ago, when Edgar was comparatively a child. Since that time and before it he was always honest, timid, almost girl-like, until some of the boys used to call him "Sissy" because he wouldn't mix it up and rough it with them. They can't tell me anything about Edgar Meikle, because I know him and his two well.

After the shooting I saw Edgar and asked him about his father's death, and he told me his story with sobs and tears streaming down his face. He said it was [illegible]

"My father came in from his work and asked if I had been to school that morning, to which I answered that I had not. Father asked if I had dinner ready, and I told him not quite, but would by the time he was ready for it. Asked if I had washed the morning dishes. I replied, rather ashamed, that I had neglected them, that I would attend to them right away. My father found some fault with every answer as he had a right to. He washed his face and seated himself at the table.

"Put Pistol to Face."

"I had a note from my teacher for him to read, but was rather afraid to hand it to him at first, because he seemed displeased, sick and worried—worried perhaps about my answers to his questions. The teacher's note was no pleasant for him to read, but as he sat at the table I handed it to him. He read it and scolded me again. I kept on with the work of preparing the meal. Father arose and entered the bedroom, but returned in a moment and stood by the stove, and then he put the pistol to his face and shot himself.

"I was so surprised that I couldn't realize it or believe that my father was shot, but lost he do further harm to himself or to me, in my fright I picked up the pistol and placed it out of his reach on the ice chest. Then I ran over to the McCarthy family. I was so weak that I fell across their table. I remember, but I told the McCarthys that my father was on the floor unconscious, and they went over."

That was the night Edgar slept at our house. After he told his story my father spoke up, referring to the talk growing out of the police investigation, and asked quickly:

"Edgar, did you shoot your father?"

My father meant this in the kindliest spirit. He had no notion Edgar did it, but it was the right moment to put the question, and he relied upon it.

"I'll never forget the look of despair on that boy's face, for it seemed to him that his last friends were deserting him. But not. He didn't cross us, would like his story, also knew the boy as her own son, was unable to live with and no other. I would to find like to the Salem jail yesterday and be beholden to anybody, because he was big enough to look out for himself.

Afterward he went to live with the Hopkins and went back to school, and he attended church and Sunday school while there.

I remember that my mother asked what he intended to do and he said he would like to go to school a little more, if every thing were all right. How breaking down most mortal to send he would people couldn't bloom him for his poor father's death. It was unsafe to leave father and the boy together, and in spite of all his gentleness, was cruel, although being pointed and misunderstood as it is he was a natural.

LYNN, Oct. 5. Catherine Trimble, who is to be married to Edgar Meikle when she was released from jail, says that the boy as her own was persecuted.

"I would be ready to head a petition or a delegation and apply to the right quarter for Edgar Meikle's release on bail."

Miss Gaudreau says that from birth Edgar was a quiet, obedient boy. He never was known to strike any one, and his father, who was insane, frequently threatened to whip him, but never did. Edgar was always kind to his father, and was never known to talk back to him. Miss Gaudreau says that Edgar was a quiet, obedient boy. He never was known to strike any one, and his father, who was insane, frequently threatened to whip him, but never did. Edgar was always kind to his father, and was never known to talk back to him.

"I would like to see the boy get a square deal, if possible," said Miss Gaudreau, "and if there is anything I can do to help him I will be glad to do it. I am sure he is innocent, and I believe he will be proved so. I have watched him since he was a child, and I will do everything in my power to uphold my thorough belief in his innocence."

FALLS WITH BRICK WALL; RESUMES WORK

After falling with a brick wall from the third to the first floor of No. 14 Dover street yesterday, Wholesaler Fabian, not realizing that he was hurt, walked to the corner, ordered a cab and only refused to go to the hospital after he returned to work at once. He was helping to tear down the building.

CROCKER WILL PROBE ENDED BY GRAND JURY

Chief Inspector Watts and Court Clerk Frederick the Two Final Witnesses.

PAYROLL PADDING NEXT

The Grand Jury today ended its investigation of alleged bribery in the Crocker will case. Two witnesses, Chief Inspector Watts of the detective force and Walter S. Frederick, clerk of the Supreme Court, were examined by Assistant District Attorney Dwyer.

It was expected at the Court House that the charges of "padding" of the city payrolls of the paving division in the South End would be taken up late today. A number of witnesses, summoned to testify in the case, were waiting at the court house to-day, ready to be called upon. They were: Dennis V. Driscoll, No. 38 Malden street, and James E. McCrackum, No. 109 Dorset street, sub-foreman of the payers; Michael H. Glass, No. 9 Hinckley street, sub-foreman of carpenters; George C. Doyle, clerk at the yard; W. J. Donahoe, No. 114 Wheatland street, sub-foreman; John Devlin, No. 5749 East Second street, sub-foreman, and William H. Conroy, foreman of the Columbia road stone crushing plant.

The case will probably be conducted by Mr. Dwyer, in the absence of Mr. Morrell, who is fatigued by overwork.

The investigation of the charges of bribery of jurors in the Crocker will case was really started last April by District Attorney Moran. It was interrupted by the flight of an important witness, but reached a climax through the publication in a newspaper recently of alleged confessions of two jurors that they had received bribes. The two jurors, Killian and Cronan, were ordered arrested, but they voluntarily surrendered themselves. They pleaded guilty and their cases were continued until October 9.

The alleged padded payroll case concerns charges that salaries in the paving department are being paid for a large number of men who are dead. The district attorney took up the case as soon as the charges were made.

ELKS TO HOLD HIGH CARNIVAL TO-MORROW

Franklin Park, Saugus, to Be Scene of Festivities of Antlered Herd.

MALDEN LODGE IN CHARGE

The Malden Lodge of Elks will hold high carnival to-morrow at Franklin Park, Saugus, and invitations have been extended to the antlered herd throughout the New England States. It is believed that the gathering of "Bills" will be very large, and the Malden Lodge has made ample provisions for taking care of the visitors. More than a thousand Elks from Boston, Malden and vicinity are to journey to Saugus early in the forenoon, and the committee says that there will be something doing from 10 o'clock in the morning until 10 o'clock of night.

All kinds of sports have found a place on the long program. The big features of the day will be the horse racing and the baseball game. In the latter, some of the star players of the State will have places in the line-up. The game will be played between teams made up of members of the Boston and Malden lodges respectively. The game will be the first in a series of contests between Elks' teams. The prize is a silver shield which will be awarded to the winning team.

The card of races is a promising one. This feature will be under the joint direction of the Gentlemen's Driving Club of Lynn and the Gentlemen's Driving Club of Dorchester. Valuable prizes will be awarded to the owners of the winning horses.

In the evening a dancing assembly will be held in the spacious pavilion, and a band and orchestra will furnish music during the day and evening. There will be lots of good things to eat, according to the promise of the Right Honorable Thied Commissary Sergeant, and the Elks who like away from business cares and the worries of urban life, are sure to be glad they're alive to-morrow.

ANCIENTS SAFE AT HOME AGAIN

The Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company, 280 strong, arrived in Boston to-day at 10 a. m. from a three days' sojourn at Atlantic City. The company was in command of Lieutenant Colonel Waters, when it arrived at the South Terminal station to-day. Captain George H. Innis, having been overcome by fatigue, was ill-used on the trip home.

Headed by the Ancients' Band, the company marched through the business streets to Merchants row and Faneuil Hall Armory, and there broke ranks and dispersed.

STOLEN FROM MAINE STORE

By means of trade marks on several pairs of shoes and also by a large, old fashioned revolver, the stolen property held at the Somerville police station was identified to-day as belonging to George W. Curll, a storekeeper in East Waterboro, Maine. Mr. Curll and Deputy Sheriff Rankin of Alfred, Maine, came to Somerville to-day, and Mr. Curll said the stolen goods came from his store, which was entered last Sunday night.

The men now waiting in the East Cambridge Jail, under arrest for having in possession of the goods, are George F. Wentworth, Thomas G. Hayes and Harry Jackson.

GIRL CRUSHED IN MACHINE

While at work in the factory of the Roxbury Carpet Company at No. 317 Shawmut street, Roxbury, to-day, Miss Helen McDermott, twenty-nine years old, of No. 8 Alleghany street, was severely injured. Her right arm was caught in a weaving machine, and before the machinery could be stopped, the young woman was nearly dragged through the machine. Her right arm was crushed, both bones of the forearm being broken. She was taken to the City Hospital.

CRACKSMEN GET BUT $3

OXFORD, Oct. 5.—Burglars blew open the safe in the general store of Foster & Marsh, at 2 a. m. to-day, securing about $3 in small change. Entrance was made through a rear window.

George Chaffee, who lives nearby heard the explosion and gave the alarm to the police. Three men were seen leaving the building by Mr. Chaffee and were pursued towards Worcester, but they disappeared in the woods.

FINED $50 FOR SELLING POOR MILK

Robert J. Murray, a milk dealer of Bullis street, Arlington, was fined $50 in the Cambridge Court by Judge Almy to-day for selling adulterated milk. Judge Almy imposed a fine of $10 on Samuel Goldenberg for selling adulterated vinegar.

APPOINTED TO JUDGESHIP.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5.—The President will appoint Assistant Attorney-General Charles H. Robb of Vermont to fill the vacancy in the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

VAGRANT FOUND DEAD.

Morris J. Martin, a vagrant, forty-eight years old, was found dead in a coal shed in a house at No. 48 Brighton street, this city, to-day by an officer of the Joy street station. Death was due to natural causes.

Be Sure to Get What You Ask For.

THERE is a Reason—
Why the Good People of America buy Cascarets as Fast as the Clock Ticks.

Every second some one, somewhere, is Buying a little Ten-Cent Box of Cascarets.

1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6—60 times to the Minute, 60 Minutes to the Hour, 3600 Boxes an Hour, 36,000 Boxes a Day of Ten Hours, 1,080,000 Boxes a Month, and then some.

Think of it—220,000 People take a Cascaret tablet each day. Millions use Cascarets when necessary.

The Judgment of Millions of Bright Americans is Infallible. They have been Buying and Taking Cascarets at that rate for over Six years.

* * *

Over Five Millions of Dollars have been Spent to make the merits of Cascarets known, and every cent of it would be lost, did not sound merit claim and hold the constant, continued friendship, Patronage and Endorsement of well-pleased people year after year.

* * *

There is also a Reason—
Why there are Parasites who attach themselves to the Healthy Body of Cascaret's success—Imitators, Counterfeiters, Substitutors.

They are Trade Thieves who would rob Cascarets of the "Good Will" of the people, and sneak unearned profits, earned and paid for by Cascarets.

A Dishonest Purpose means a Dishonest Product and a Disregard of the Purchasers' Health or Welfare.

Beware of the Slick Salesman and his ancient "Just as Good" story that common sense refutes.

Cascarets are made only by the Sterling Remedy Company, and put up in metal box with the "long-tailed C" on the cover. They are never sold in bulk.

Every tablet marked "CCC."

Be sure you get the genuine.

Your Full Money's Worth in the Clothes

If You Buy Your Fall Suit or Overcoat at "White's"

Men's Clothes sold on the same basis as dry goods—the same small profits and large sales. When you buy a $20.00 Suit or Overcoat at "White's" you get twenty dollars worth of actual suit value—you put your money into material, expert tailoring and finish—not for some particular house's name and big profits.

R. H. W. Special and Kirschbaum SUITS

Are made for men who want good clothes and know when they get them. You couldn't ask for finer suits. Style, comfort and serviceability locked up in every one of them. Two particularly swell new models are:

The Fifth Avenue Sack Suits

With coats cut 32½ inches long, shaped back—creased side seams, the new hook vent in the sleeves, the natural shoulders and full lapel with long roll.

The Hanwell Sack Suits

Built for the conservative dresser, with the same distinctive style in every line and detail, but a trifle less decided patterns.

Such swell new materials as: Diagonal and Herringbone worsteds, velour finish cassimeres, chain weave serges, double and twist suitings, and for colors and patterns you may select from Newport slates, Balmoral blue coaching stripes, club checks, and so on through the long list.

You can pay your tailor or some high-priced clothing house $30, or even $40, and you'll not get a finer suit than ours at..... $20

For a Fall Overcoat

You can select one of the new French Back Coats, or a Raincoat, and you'll make no mistake. And if you buy now you get the benefit of your coat for the entire season—you sport the new styles first—

Prices $10 to $25

Young Men's Sack Suits

Are built just as carefully as the men's suits. Single and double breasted suits are about equally in favor. The favorite patterns are overplaids and fancy mixtures—the sizes 31 to 36 chest measure—

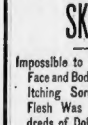
DISFIGURING SKIN HUMOR

Impossible to Get Employment, as Face and Body Were Covered With Itching Sores — Scratched Till Flesh Was Raw — Spent Hundreds of Dollars on Doctors and Hospitals and Grew Worse

CURED BY CUTICURA IN FIVE WEEKS



"Since the year 1894 I have been troubled with a very bad case of eczema which I have spent hundreds of dollars trying to cure, and I went to the hospital, but they failed to cure me and it was getting worse all the time. Five weeks ago my wife bought a box of Cuticura Ointment and one cake of Cuticura Soap, and I am pleased to say that I am now completely cured and well.

"It was impossible for me to get employment with my face, head, and body were covered with it. The eczema first appeared on the top of my head, and it has worked all the way around down the back of my neck and around to my throat, down my body and around the hips. I itched so I would be obliged to scratch it, and the flesh was raw.

"I would first wash the affected parts with warm water and Cuticura Soap, and then apply Cuticura Ointment, and let it remain on all night, and in the morning I would use Cuticura Soap. I am now all well, which all my friends can testify to, and I will be pleased to recommend the Cuticura Remedies to any and all persons who wish a speedy and permanent cure of skin diseases." Liquozone Free.
Any sick person who has never used Liquozone should write The Liquozone Company, 458-460 Wabash Ave., Chicago. They will send, free of charge, a bottle of Liquozone, enough to show what it will do in any case of stomach trouble, fever, blood poison, ulcer, boil, tumor or run-down condition. The reason they make this free offer is because they know that one bottle is enough to show a skeptical person that Liquozone will do all that is claimed for it. Then you will make the Liquozone do the rest. Liquozone is the only remedy in the world that kills disease germs. That is why it cures disease. Nothing else can do this. That is why Liquozone is the most successful tonic ever discovered. Over 150,000 people have written to say that Liquozone has cured them of Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Stomach Trouble, Kidney Disease, Liver Trouble, Boils, Eczema, Catarrh, Hemorrhoids, Fever, Malaria, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, Grippe, Pneumonia, Scrofula, Erysipelas, Rheumatism, Female Weakness, Piles, Ulcers, Tumors, Gangrene, Blood Poison, Abscesses, Varicose Ulcers, Diabetes, Anemia, Nervousness, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Locomotor Ataxia, Hardening of the Arteries, Contagious Blood Poison, Leprosy, Cancer, and all other diseases. Over 22,000 Doctors use Liquozone in their practice. Over 30,000 Druggists sell it. Over 150,000 people have been cured by it. Over 1,000,000 bottles have been sold. Liquozone is the most wonderful remedy in the world. Write for free bottle to-day.

GAVE LIFE TO SAVE BROTHERS; 3 DEAD IN FIRE

Overturning Lamp Puts Four Others in Peril at Portland Blaze.

FIREMAN IS OVERCOME

PORTLAND, Oct. 5.—Fire following the explosion of an overturned lamp to-day cost the lives of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Vanier, No. 21 Middle street. The dead:

Armand Vanier, fourteen years old.
Henry Vanier, eight years old.
Leo Vanier, six years old.

Three others, Joseph, ten years old, Arthur, two years old, and an infant were rescued barely in time to escape a similar fate. The seventh child did not live at home.

The fire was easily extinguished, after damaging the upper part of the house, where the children and Mrs. Vanier were in bed, to the extent of about $1,000.

Boy Gave Up Life.

Mr. Vanier had gone to work fifteen minutes before the fire broke out, leaving his wife and the two younger children in bed on the second floor. The other four boys who lived at home were sleeping in an attic bedroom just at the head of the stairs leading from the living rooms. The fire started on or beneath these stairs, it is thought, and the burning kerosene caused it to spread quickly and make a heavy volume of smoke.

The screams of Mrs. Vanier aroused the two boys, Armand and Joseph, who, without a moment's hesitation, rushed down the blazing stairway to assist their mother. Mrs. Vanier, however, had made her way outdoors in safety with the two babies. Turning his attention to his two little brothers, Henry and Leo, who were still in the attic, Armand dashed back up the stairs. It is believed that he never knew the flames on his way up, for when he got the door was open. Armand was found stretched on the floor at the side of the brothers lay, and when he had managed to reach before he himself was overcome. The faces of all the lads were so burned as to be unrecognizable.

Fireman Overcome.

Joseph, who had remained at the foot of the stairs waiting to assist his brother Armand, clung to his post until driven back by smoke, and was rescued barely in time by Thomas Griffin, a neighbor.

Fireman George P. Cady was nearly overcome by smoke in assisting Griffin to the upper part of the house, and was assisted from the building by a patrolman.

T. P. O'CONNOR TO BE HONORED HERE MONDAY

After the first strenuous week of his visit to America, Hon. T. P. O'Connor, member of Parliament and Irish Envoy to the United Irish Leagues will arrive in Boston to-morrow at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. He will occupy a suite at the Hotel Lenox.

Mayor Fitzgerald will give a luncheon at the Lenox on Monday at 1 p.m., when Governor Guild and the representatives of the press and patriotic societies will be afforded an opportunity to meet the distinguished visitor.

Mr. O'Connor will be entertained at lunch upon his arrival in the city by Governor Guild at the Algonquin Club.

The Atlantic conference will also give a lunch in honor of Mr. O'Connor on Monday afternoon at the committee room of the Exchange Club, to which both Governor Guild and Mayor Fitzgerald have been invited.

These gentlemen have been invited to meet Mr. O'Connor at the luncheon given by Mayor Fitzgerald: His Excellency Curtis Guild, Jr., Governor of Massachusetts; General Charles H. Taylor, Boston Globe; John L. Eddy, Boston American; John H. Holmes and W. E. Hasell, Boston Herald; C. E. L. Wingate, Boston Journal; E. A. Grozier, Boston Post; Herbert S. Underwood, Boston Record and Advertiser; Robert Lincoln Offbin, Boston Transcript; John H. Pahey, Boston Traveler; Joseph J. Murphy, Republic; Patrick M. Donohue, Pilot; Matthew Cummings, A. O. H.; A. Shuman, Atlantic Conference; Daniel F. Buckley, K. of C.; Thomas H. Fitzpatrick, L. L.; Dr. Thomas J. Gargan, L. L.; Superintendent P. Murphy, Foresters; Dr. P. J. Flemming, L. L.; John O'Callaghan, L. L.; Mr. Michael P. Curran, Charles F. Gettony, Secretary to Governor.

ORDERS BABY TO MOTHER

In the Equity Session of the Superior Court to-day, Judge Fessenden ordered Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Long to deliver their grandchild, a year-and-a-half-old baby boy, to its mother, Mrs. Jennie Hazel Long. The child's mother is the pretty Wonderland cashier, who on the evening of August 28, was shot and nearly killed by her husband, Robert H. Long, who is now locked up in the Charles Street jail, awaiting trial on the charge of attempted murder.

Mrs. Long was discharged from the hospital a few days ago, having nearly recovered from the wounds inflicted by her husband. Shortly after leaving the husband's parents home at No. 20 Bellingham avenue, Chelsea, to get the baby, who has been cured for by its grandparents while its mother was in the hospital. The couple refused to give up the child and the motion for habeas corpus was filed to-day. Her attorney was Frank Kenzer.

The husband's parents were in court to-day with the boy, and when Judge Fessenden ordered that the child be given to its mother, the elder Mrs. Long wept bitterly and reluctantly handed the child to its mother, who was also greatly affected.

Mrs. Long has instituted a suit for divorce from her husband on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment.

COAL DEALER TO GET TRUST FREEZE OUT

WINCHENDON, Oct. 5.—Coal has gone up a dollar a ton here, making the price $7.50. At the beginning of the season G. H. Townsend refused to raise his price and the trust will try to freeze him out.

DYNAMITE KILLS LABORER.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—One man is dead to-day and another will die from an explosion of dynamite in Belmont tunnel yesterday under the new Belmont Hotel at Forty-second street and Park avenue. The dead man is George Jones of Rosendale, N. Y.

4 OF WATER BOARD IN LYNN ASKED TO RESIGN

Special to the Boston American.

LYNN, Oct. 5.—Mayor Barney to-day requested the President of the Lynn Water Board, William B. Littlefield, and three other members of the board, Thomas B. Nichols, James Burns and Stephen Dearborn, to resign from office, as a result of the report of the special commission appointed to investigate the charges of graft in the Kimball Walden Pond dam contract. It is probable that the four officials will comply with Mayor Barney's request without opposition or protest. The fifth member of the board, Eugene Bodge, is not affected by the investigation, as he has been in office only a few months.

The report of the special commission was made public by the Mayor this morning. The commission reported that, while it was not proved that the members of the Water Board were guilty of grafting in the sense of having been personally benefited pecuniarily, it was, of the opinion that the members of the board had been guilty of gross mismanagement, poor business judgment in awarding the contracts on the Kimball Walden Pond dam and not protecting the city's interests.

The charges brought against the members of the Water Board, all of whom are prominent in business circles in this city, created a profound sensation, and the public hearings held upon the case by the investigating commission were crowded. One of the features of the report of the commission was that an inspector, one Robinson, who was employed by the city to watch the work on the big dam, reported to President Littlefield that the contractor was not building the dam according to specifications, and because of his zealous activity in the interests of the city, this inspector was dismissed from the service. He was an important witness at the public hearings.

It was also brought out in the report of the commission that the Water Board paid for the old and antiquated pumping machinery purchased from a Philadelphia concern before the machinery was ever tested. It later developed that the pumping machinery was of an obsolete type and cost more money than new and modern machinery.

LABOR NEWS

UNITED PAINTERS TRADES UNION COUNCIL 96 BOSTON, MASS.

The suit brought by a non-union man, who claims damages for the loss of his position through the efforts of officers of the Carpenters' District Council was dismissed by the delegates to the Council last night as a scheme concocted by the Employers' Association of Boston to injure the officers of the Council. The suit was brought against President D. D. McIntosh, Secretary A. M. Watson and Business Agent Arthur W. Wason. There is absolutely no ground for the suit, it was asserted. A protest was entered against such methods, and the delegates said they were satisfied that when the courts take the matter up it will be found that there are no grounds for prosecuting with the case.

It was decided to hold a referendum vote next month on the advisability of reviving the Saturday half holiday next Summer, beginning May 1. A letter was received from the Typographical Union stating that they will assist in unloading the C. H. Beck paper building, if called upon. It is expected to have the stateholding concern of E. C. Smith & Co. on Beverly street unionized in a few days, completing the thorough organization of that branch of the craft in this city.

Delegates to the recent convention of the Brotherhood of Carpenters at Niagara Falls reported that the Brotherhood, as a result of the convention, will take steps to resist the different laws in this vicinity to more thoroughly organize, especially among the shop and mill hands and woodworkers. Several members were fined for violation of trade rules.

OPPOSE SENATOR STEVENS.

The Somerville Wage Earners' Club meets to-night in Lower Union Hall, Union square, Somerville. Among the speakers will be Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State branch, A. F. of L., Secretary Henry Abrahams of the Boston Central Labor Union, President David Coughlin and Charles G. Wilkins of the Boston Typographical Union and President Thomas M. Nolan.

Plans will be mapped out for a vigorous campaign against Senator Elmer A. Stevens, who is seeking re-election with the avowed purpose of running on a platform of anti-Senate.

Senator Stevens in his acceptance stated that he saw no reason to change his attitude on the anti-Senate bill against the General Court of 1905-6," says President Nolan, "thereby serving notice on the wage earners of the State that he will continue to oppose measures of benefit to them and will do his best to serve the desires of organized labor."

INCREASE MEMBERSHIP.

Several applications for membership were received as a result of a mass meeting under the auspices of the Piano and Organ Workers' Unions of Boston and Cambridge, last night in Webb Memorial Hall. Among the speakers were International Organizer Thomas V. Pedigo, of Chicago, Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State Branch, A. F. of L., Secretary Henry Abrahams of the Central Labor Union, and International Organizer Edward L. Gunn, secretary of the Amalgamated Woodworkers' Union.

WAGE EARNERS' MEETINGS.

A mass meeting of the Ward 25 Wage Earners' Club will be held to-night in Red Men's Hall, Brighton. Addresses will be made by President John E. Fitts of the Central Wage Earners' Club, Secretary-Treasurer D. D. Driscoll of the State Branch, A. F. of L., and Secretary Henry Abrahams of the Central Labor Union.

The Ward 14 Wage Earners' Club will be addressed by prominent labor men to-morrow night to give an entertainment for the club, No. 147 Emerson street, South Boston. All wage earners are invited to attend.

LABOR NOTES.

Boston Pavers' Union No. 1 made arrangements last night to give an entertainment for the benefit of the wife of a deceased member.

Stationary Union No. 19,465 has voted to affiliate with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

The striking gold beaters have been donated $25 by Plasterers' Union No. 29. The latter has also been voted to assist the Structural Relief Association in the sum of $50 per week. The Plasterers' delegates to the last meeting reported the imprisonment of labor men for alleged violation of law.

Samuel Levine will represent Newspaper Wagon Drivers' Union at the annual convention of the State Branch, A. F. of L., which opens next Monday at Lawrence.

A Reasonable Plea For The Stomach

If Your Stomach is Lacking in Digestive Power, Why Not Help the Stomach Do Its Work—Especially When It Costs Nothing to Try!

Not with drugs, but with a reinforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach? Scientific analysis shows that digestion requires pepsin, nitrogenous ferments, and the secretion of hydrochloric acid. When your food fails to digest, it is proof positive that some of these agents are lacking in your digestive apparatus.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets contain nothing but these natural elements necessary to digestion and when placed to work in the weak stomach and small intestines, supply what these organs need. They stimulate the gastric glands and gradually bring the digestive organs back to their normal condition.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been subjected to critical chemical tests at home and abroad and are found to contain nothing but natural digestives.

Chemical Laboratory, Telegraphic address, "Difficile," London, Eng., cable address, "Difficile," London, Eng., phone No. 11029 Central. 20 Cullum St., Fenchurch St., E. C.

London, 9th Aug., 1905.

I have analyzed most carefully a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets (which I purchased myself at a city chemist's shop for the purpose), manufactured by the F. A. Stuart Co., Temple Chambers, London, E. C., and have to report that I cannot find any trace of vegetable or mineral poisons. Knowing the ingredients of the 1,000 grains of opinion that they are admirably adaptable for the purpose for which they are intended. (Signed) C. H. ——

John R. Brooke, F. I. C., F. C. S.

There is no secret in the preparation of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Their composition is commonly known among physicians, as is shown by the recommendation of over 7,000 American physicians in the United States and Canada. They are the most popular of all remedies for indigestion, dyspepsia, water brash, insomnia, loss of appetite, melancholia, constipation dysentery and kindred diseases originating from improper dissolution and assimilation of foods, because they are thoroughly reliable and harmless to man or child.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are at once a safe and a powerful remedy, one grain of these tablets being strong enough (by test) to digest 3,000 grains of steak, eggs and other foods. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest your food for you when your stomach can't.

Ask your druggist for a full 50 cent package or send to us direct for a free trial sample package and you will be surprised at the result. F. A. Stuart Co., 64 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich.

There is no point of greatest difficulty, and General Funston has dispatched a detachment of marines there to preserve order and enforce disarmament.

MISS POWER TO ANSWER BOARD

The trouble existing in the Board of Consumptives Hospital over the expenditure of the $100,000 authorized by the Legislature for the care of poor consumptives pending the erection of a hospital will be fully ventilated in the Board of Aldermen Monday, October 15. Miss Eliza Power, one of the trustees, to-day announced that she will reply to the order of the aldermen requesting her to submit a statement concerning the care of consumptives at the Free Home for Consumptives in Dorchester, of which institution she is the head.

Although the $100,000 has been available since March 26, not one cent has as yet been expended for the care of consumptives.

SAW GETS HIS FINGERS.

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 5.—William H. Thompson, employed at Smith & Rowe's carpenter shop, lost two fingers and a thumb by hitting a circular saw yesterday.

MORAN STILL SEEKING REST

Completely exhausted from overwork in connection with the special cases before the Grand Jury and from the effects of the arduous duties on the night before the Democratic convention, District Attorney John B. Moran is to-day resting at his apartments in the Hotel Navarre. Part of the time is bed and at other times lounging on the sofa in his room, he refuses to see anyone, even his private stenographer.

It is likely that Mr. Moran will not be out again to-morrow or Monday. In the meantime the work in the Grand Jury room is being carried on by Assistant District Attorney Dexter.

$31.50 PEMIUM FOR SYMPHONY SEATS

The $18 suits for the Saturday night concerts of the Boston Symphony Orchestra were sold at auction yesterday, the highest premium being $31.50 for two seats, and the lowest premiums ranged from $26.50 to $8 and $9.

RECEIVER FOR HINCKLEY PLANT

On petition of Albert S. Apsey, receiver of the defunct First National Bank of Chelsea, Judge Lowell in the United States Circuit Court to-day appointed Frank Brewster, receiver for the Bay State Carriage Company of Boston and Newburyport. Brewster was ordered to furnish a bond of $250,000 and to at once wind up the affairs of the company.

In his bill of complaint Mr. Apsey says the property of the company is valued at $600,000 and the plant and $20,000 worth of stock. He declares that the gross value of assets is $850,000 and that the total indebtedness is $100,000. He alleges that practically all the shares of the company are held by the Hinckley family, of which the late President Hinckley of the bankrupt bank was a member, and that the company has a claim of $87,000 against Hinckley Brothers.

ROCKLAND, Me., Oct. 5.—The Knox County Veterans' Association met to-day with Edwin Libby Post, G. A. R., and elected Wilder S. Irish of Camden president.

BOY DIES FROM HYDROPHOBIA

SALEM, Oct. 5.—Two months after he was bitten and long after he had ceased to trouble him, Louis Marsland, ten years old, died here early to-day of hydrophobia.

Marsland was bitten by a dog while at his grandmother's at No. 2 Steven street, Lynn. Shortly after that he came here to reside with his aunt, Mrs. McNinnis. Wednesday he was taken with severe pains, which were at first diagnosed as indigestion. Last night convulsions began and he died in fearful agony at 2 a. m. to-day.

MET OVER WIRE, ROMANCE ENDS IN WEDDING

Secret Ceremony Announced by Handsome Brookline Telephone Girl.

Miss Prescott F. (Pattie) Skinner returned to the home of her mother in Brookline yesterday after an absence of twenty-four hours, and with down-cast eyes exhibited a plain gold band ring on the third finger of her left hand. There were tears and forgiveness, and the young woman who had slipped quietly out of Brookline the evening before on the pretext of going to a musicale with her sweetheart and returned a married woman, was taken to the arms of her mother.

As Miss J. Pattie the young woman was regarded as the belle of the Brookline telephone office. Her romance began with an introduction over the "service" to Prescott B. Skinner of Milton, a young man of twenty-four.

APPETITE REGAINED.

Trappist Fathers' Phosphated Wine of Cinchona as a Tonic.

Dyspepsia, loss of appetite, anemia, may come to any one through overwork, worry or illness. Unless attended to at once this condition is full of danger. The Trappist Fathers' Phosphated Wine of Cinchona is a wonderful tonic and corrective made by the monks of the Notre-Dame-du-Lac, at Oka, Canada. It is especially recommended for convalescents, young mothers, women undergoing the change of life and for aged people. Read the following testimonial.

Gentlemen—Like many of my friends I have recovered my health in using the Trappist Fathers' Phosphated Wine of Cinchona. I was weak, had no appetite and was suffering from dyspepsia. I am now in perfect health and can recommend a few bottles of this valued tonic wine to those who are completely.

MADAME ARSENE HERON,
30, Justice, Montmorency Co., Canada.

If you are all run down and nervous you naturally wish to recover your strength and health as soon as possible.

Try the tonic that builds strength, the medicine that cures; try Trappist Fathers' Wine and try it today.

All druggists sell it.

The Prodigal.

Like the prodigal son, who, after squandering his wealth in riotous living, eventually returned to his home, where he received his father's welcome and forgiveness, so the afflicted, after testing every remedy, at last sought the fountain of perfect health in Dr. Burkhart's Vegetable Compound, which cures constipation, rheumatism, fever and ague, erysipelas, scrofula, catarrh, dyspepsia, with the following distressing symptoms: Pains in the sides, back and under the shoulder blade, smothering sensations, palpitation of the heart, poor appetite, craving, boring sounds in the head, sour, sick and bilious stomach, headache, stiffness in the limbs, etc. It eradicates every impurious substance clogging the blood, and has no equal as a vitalizing force of the human system, as a flesh-builder and a nerve stimulator. Thirty days' treatment, 25c. All druggists.

MORAN AND BROWN NAMED BY DEMOCRATS

INDEPENDENCE LEAGUE CANDIDATES ARE ACCEPTED WITH ENTHUSIASM.

At the Democratic State convention in Tremont Temple yesterday, John R. Moran, District Attorney of Suffolk county, and E. Gerry Brown, prominent as a worker in the interest of wage-earners in Massachusetts, were nominated by acclamation for Governor and Lieutenant-Governor, respectively.

Thomas L. Hisgen, of Springfield, who, as an independent dealer, has successfully fought the Oil Trust, was the choice, in the same unanimous way, for the office of State Auditor.

In placing the three men in nomination, the convention thus endorses candidates of the Independence League, named at the State convention of the League held in Faneuil Hall a week ago last Saturday. The rest of the ticket selected was as follows:

For Secretary of State, Charles C. Paine of Hyannis.

For Treasurer, George M. Harrigan, of Lowell.

For Attorney General, John W. Cummings, of Fall River.

OVER 100 CHEER AT SMOKE TALK OF WARD 3 LEAGUE

Hustling Branch Admits 25 New Members and Gets Swarm of Applications.

The young but energetic branch of the Independence League in Ward 3, Charlestown, held a smoke talk last evening at No. 156 Bunker Hill street. There were over 100 present, and the enthusiasm shown proved that the club is to be one of the permanent fixtures of that district.

A new leader was chosen last night in the person of William H. Sullivan, who has been vice-president of the league since it was formed, and Joseph Farren was elected vice-president; Allard J. Warner, treasurer; George F. Sloan, financial secretary, and Mr. Kiley, recording secretary. About twenty-five new members were admitted and several more made application to be enrolled.

On taking the chair Mr. Sullivan said: "It is now time that you shake off the 'loosism' and do and act for yourself. Do not be led around by these so-called self-constituted ward leaders. The Independence League is trying to benefit them, for they are a detriment to good government. While they say they are working against the trusts, do not believe them. They are being paid by the trusts.

"The Independence League has no one for the boss. You have a sample of this right in our own district. The Jackson Club members are all under boss rule and must vote as they are told. If they don't it is all up with them.

"Stick to the Independence League and it will stand by you."

Mr. Farren, the newly elected vice-president, is one of the most energetic men of the ward, and is a great worker in the interest of the league.

JOSEPH FARREN OF WARD 3,
New vice-president of hustling Charlestown League.

ESCAPED STORM THAT SWEPT GULF

Overdue since Saturday, the freight steamer Edenhall, sailing from Progreso, Mex., was reported from Highland Light today and makes her dock in Boston. Considerable anxiety had been felt for the steamer, as it was thought that she may have foundered in the hurricanes that swept the gulf last week.

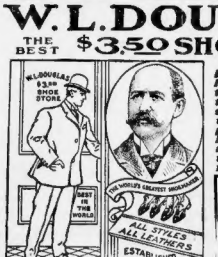
THE BEST $3.50 SHOES FOR MEN



Do you wear W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes? If not, you should give them a trial, because they are the best shoes produced for the price; this is proved by my sales. I make and sell more men's $3.50 shoes than any other manufacturer in the world.

UNEQUALLED FOR QUALITY AND DURABILITY.

"For five years I have worn Douglas $3.50 shoes. Prior to this I had tried about every other $3.50 shoe on the market. For quality and durability I find Douglas $3.50 shoes are unequalled."
GEORGE McANAVE,
2 Pickering Pl., J. Boston.

If I could take you into my large factories at Brockton, Mass., and show you how carefully W. L. Douglas $3.50 shoes are made, you would then understand why they hold their shape, fit better, wear longer, and are of greater value than any other make.

BOYS' SHOES, $2.00 & $1.75. Just the same as my men's $3.50 shoes, the same leathers, for $2.00 and $1.75.

LOWEST PRICES EASIEST TERMS LARGEST STOCK

The marvellous growth that has followed the advertising of our liberal methods is conclusive evidence that we not only sell on the easiest possible terms but at lowest prices as well. We can satisfy you in a moment that our prices are as low, value for value, as any cash store.

The success of our business is due to the fact that people are honest. We can afford to wait for the money, in view of the big business we do, and in our experience there are more reasons why the man working for day wages should have credit than those whose inherited wealth makes it easy to demand an open account. Our percentage of losses with wage earners is remarkably small, and this honesty of the ordinary working man and his family makes possible this system of liberal credit.

5 DEAD, 24 INJURED IN WRECK OF HUB EXPRESS BY TROOP TRAIN

MRS. STEVENS OF WINCHESTER, KILLED IN WRECK, AND HER HUSBAND,

Mrs. Stevens had acquired more than local reputation as a talented soprano singer, and with her husband, whose injury may prove fatal, was an active worker in the Unitarian church.

Arlington Bride of a Few Days Killed in Collision Near Troy, N. Y.

Five were killed and twenty-four injured in he wreck of a Boston express train caused by a collision at Lansingburg, N. Y., near Troy, yesterday afternoon. Among the dead and injured were many New England men and women.

The accident was caused by a heavy special, bearing 600 horses and 250 men of the Second Squadron, 15th United States Cavalry, on their way from Fort Ethan Allan to Cuba, crashing into the rear of the express, which was standing at the station waiting for the eastbound express to pass.

Two of the three Pullman cars at the end of the express train, which was standing on the track 100 yards from the fatal curve waiting for the eastbound express to pass, were completely demolished. The last car was hurled down a 30-foot embankment. All those killed were occupants of this car.

The escape from death of the 20 others in the car was little short of miraculous. The Pullman next to it was toppled over into the bank next to the track, while the third Pullman, the five day coaches and two baggage cars on the train remained on the track.

THE DEAD.

BLOCK, F. L., Peoria, Ill.
DACEY, MRS. JOHN W., Arlington.

MITCHELL, F. A., Falmouth, ten cuts on scalp.
MOULTON, MRS. JANE, Bath, Me., slight bruises.
RANDALL, MISS ALICE, Bath, Me., slight wounds on face.
SEYMOUR, W. H., Canton, O., head badly cut, bruises on body.
STEVENS, GEORGE D., Winchester, probably fatally injured; both knees crushed, head crushed and internal injuries.
VAN TASSEL, W. T., No. 8 School street place, Roxbury, burned.
VAN TASSEL, MRS. W. T., Boston, contusions on face.

The most pathetic feature of the wreck, perhaps, was the death of Mrs. John W. Dacey of Arlington, a bride of only a few hours. After years of responsible care as the head of a family of orphan brothers and sisters, Mary Elizabeth O'Neil of Arlington on Wednesday night became the wife of John W. Dacey.

Yesterday morning she started with her husband on her wedding tour. Her two sisters and her brother, who are the only members of a family of nine now left at the home on Norcross street, Arlington, received a brief telegram from Mr. Dacey last evening telling of Mrs. Dacey's death. The household was prostrated with grief.

Was Left at Head of Family.

Miss O'Neil eleven years ago was left at the head of a family of seven younger brothers and sisters by the death of her mother. The father had died eight years previously and two older children had already married. She was then but 18 years old, but she went to work and soon learned the art of dressmaking, serving in several of the big department stores of the city.

Mrs. George D. Stevens, who was with her husband on the wrecked train and was killed in the disaster, was a former resident of Malden, where she was well known as Elizabeth Deshon. Her two brothers are well known members of the theatrical profession, one being the manager of "The Strollers" company. Mr. and Mrs. Stevens moved away from Malden three years ago and have since lived in Winchester.

Mr. Stevens, who was injured, is a member of the firm of Willard, Welch & Co., of Exchange place, Boston, and both he and his wife have been prominent in social circles in Winchester.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Van Tassell were two other Boston people hurt in the wreck. Mr. Van Tassell is employed as executive clerk at the Old Court House. Mr. and Mrs. Van Tassell left home yesterday to be gone, they said, for a few days. Friends in this city received a long distance telephone message from Mr. Van Tassell last night, stating that he and his wife had escaped serious injury in the wreck.

Frank Belcher, who was among the injured, is one of the best known men in Medford. He lives at No. 11 Ellis street, one of the fashionable residential sections of the city. He is married and has two children, one son, Frank K. Belcher, and a daughter, Grace. He is employed as bookkeeper for Faulkner, Page & Co. at No. 91 Bedford street, where he has been for many years.

MRS. STEVENS KNOWN AS TALENTED SINGER IN HER HOME TOWN

Mrs. George D. Stevens of Winchester, who was killed in the wreck, was formerly Miss Elizabeth Deshon of Malden. She was 34 years old and very popular in her home city. She was a talented soprano and a former pupil of the famous opera tenor, Campanari. She was married five years ago. Her husband who was injured in the wreck, is a real estate agent, connected with the office of Willard Welch in this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were prominent members of the Unitarian church in Winchester, Mrs. Stevens being an earnest and untiring church worker. Mrs. Stevens's brother is Frank Deshon, the actor.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens were on their way to visit friends in New York state.

VERMONTER LOST AT POKER; TOOK DRUG

Michael Mansfield, a pressman on the Vermont Opinion at Bradford, Vt., ate morphine pills in the belfries at 35 Leverett street last night. He was rushed to the Relief Station, where it is believed that the early application of the stomach pump will ultimately save his life. The cause of Mansfield's act is said to be the loss of money in a poker game.

3-HOUR-SALES GREAT CHANCE FOR SHOPPERS

Houghton & Dutton's Big Feature Has Become One of Boston's Noted Institutions.

COME TWICE EACH FRIDAY

Two "Three-hour Sales," those golden opportunities when the shopper is given the privilege of obtaining a hundred and one varieties of goods to be found in an up-to-date department store, are held at the store of the Houghton & Dutton Company today. Realizing the advantages of advertising in the pages of the BOSTON AMERICAN, the management has sought its columns for circulating the advertisement of this particular sale, which is held each week on Friday. For six years, without change in style or form, the company has been announcing this sale in certain newspapers, and the advertisement in itself now stands as unique, for never before has a single advertising plan been conducted so long a time.

The sales to-day are held from nine in the morning until noon, and at two in the afternoon other sales go on which last until five. After the closing hours none of the goods can be purchased at the greatly reduced prices at which they are offered. Each of the sales is independent of the other, and the articles of the morning are not offered in the afternoon. The company has made a great reduction in prices, rare bargains are offered and the woman shopper who realizes the value of such purchasing will find here an excellent opportunity for real bargains.

There is scarcely a department in the immense store of the Houghton & Dutton Company that has not contributed some of its choicest articles for to-day's sale. At astonishingly low prices there are offered articles for every department of the household. Dress goods, underwear, hosiery, men's and women's suits, shoes—in fact, every article of wearing apparel of the most up-to-date patterns is to be found in this beautiful store. Furniture, books, rugs, lamps and market sundries of quality to please all are on sale in the various departments at prices wonderfully low. Now that the Autumn season is at its height, the management has made it a point to provide necessities of the season for the sales. The newest designs are shown, the prettiest, the most useful and the best in quality has been the watch word of the buyers.

The store of the Houghton & Dutton Company never presented a more cheerful appearance to the shopper in the quest for goods of the kind that please. From roof to basement are found bargains, real bargains, for all, and of every line, whether one is fitting out a house or has a pair of stockings to buy. These in hundredfold measure are arranged in careful order and in a manner to help the shopper to select. The "Three-hour Sales" of to-day [illegible] to add more success to their successful past.

MEYER HELLER, NEWSBOY, TELLS OWN STORY OF HIS BATTLE TO WIN HARVARD EDUCATION

(Photographed by Boston American Staff Photographer.)

HELLER, HIS MOTHER AND STUDY ROOM.

His Dream of Winning Advance by Study Began Nine Years Ago.

"I have always dreamed of this thing," says Meyer Heller, the prince of the Boston newsboys' Harvard scholarship, who has entered the big university to begin his studies.

In the humble home at No. 23 Wall street, where Meyer Heller lives with his widowed mother, he told his own story of his collegiate ambitions and of his ultimate success, as follows:

By Meyer Heller.

I DON'T think that there is anything wonderful about my trying to "make" Harvard. I feel proud, of course, that I am, as President Eliot said, nearly a year and a half younger than most boys are when they take their first exams. I am gratified, too, that it was I who was selected for the first scholarship. I have always dreamed of this thing. Ever since the day that I first entered the Phillips Grammar School, let's see, that was just ten years ago.

"Well, I thought then that it must be a fine thing to go into a college and come out a great, learned man, become a lawyer, or a doctor, or something fine that would make people regard you. I suppose it was these dreams that made me study out of school hours. My father died about that time and I had to help support my mother and baby sister. My older brother Charles helped, of course.

Interested in Chemistry.

I seemed to get along pretty well at the Phillips school. I bought that set of study books over there in the bookcase and became quite interested in chemistry and other studies that we did not have at the grammar school. All this time I sold papers—at night mostly.

I graduated from the grammar school after six years—that was in 1902. I'd painted to his diploma proudly. It was neatly framed and hung beside his brother's, the brother Charles, who is now a sophomore in Harvard and who will make forestry his profession.

After I graduated from the grammar school I began to sell papers on a regular business. I had a fine stand on Merrimac street and sold papers in the late afternoon in one of the biggest cigar factories in the city. Nights I studied. It was mighty hard, sometimes, to stay in the front room and "plug" over dry algebra and physics when I could hear the other fellows playing and cutting down in the street, but somehow that dream of mine was just as bright as ever, and I stuck to it. I'm glad I did, now. When the Newsboys' Union was organized I joined it at once, of course.

Was Doubtful of Scheme.

When the free scholarship scheme was first talked of it did not seem to many of us that it could be carried out. I don't think that any of the boys expected that it would any more than I did, and I don't think that it would be bragging if I should say that I worked mighty hard to have the scheme realized. I studied more and more after that, and my brother's success in Harvard inspired me, I guess, to get ready for the examinations if the free scholarship scheme did "pan out," as we all hoped it would.

Now I've decided what studies I'm going to take at Harvard now, and I'll sell papers at my old stand on Merrimac street, just the same, you know. I hope to get through the regular university course in three years and then go to medical school. I like law, but I think that I like medicine a little better, and I feel now that that will be my choice.

"I'm very grateful to the boys of the union who worked so hard to raise the money for the fund, and I hope that the lucky chap next year will desire the education as much as I have, and appreciate it as much as I do."

2-HOUR QUAKE FROM SYDNEY

Reported by Recorders

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Cables from Sydney say that seismographs there and at Perth recorded an earthquake Tuesday noon lasting for two hours. The government seismometers believe there was a disturbance somewhere, eclipsing the disaster at San Francisco.

It is said that there was a similar record made by the seismograph on the Isle of Wight.

CHINESE GIRL SMART PUPIL

DAUGHTER OF YALE MAN

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Oct. 5.—The most noticeable student at the fashionable Courtland School is Miss Yung Di Chu, a pretty Chinese girl, the ward of Sir Chentung Liang Cheng, Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary to the United States from China.

Miss Yung Di Chu was among the first pupils to enroll for the term. She wears a fashionable American costume. She speaks faultless English and is proficient in other languages. She is about eighteen years old.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The Pennsylvites, after a siege of defeats on their own grounds in the Hub, appeared here this afternoon for the first of two games, which will wind up the season in the National League for both teams, although the weather was cloudy and it looked as though to-day's battle might have to be postponed.

The Bostons were a very tame batch, and the Giants felt confident that they could beat them to a pulp.

Pfeffer, who has quite a record for this season, was booked to pitch for the visitors, while Ames was selected to do the twirling for the home talent.

KENNEY HAD IT OVER COTE

LOWELL, Oct. 5.—Frank Kenney of Lowell was awarded the decision over Arthur Cote of Biddeford, Me., in a bout of twelve rounds at the meeting of the Spindle City A. C. in Associate hall, last night. Cote's manager said after the match that Cote was suffering from a cold and wanted another match with Kenney. Young Sidney of Boston challenged the winner.

In what was to be a four-round bout Young Donohue defeated Young Keeler in the second round. A draw was declared at the close of six rounds of sparring by Tommy Sullivan of Lowell and Larry Moleton of Boston. Before the sparring there were exhibitions of wrestling by Plante brothers and Cullaly and Rogers.

FIGHT PICTURES AT OLD HOWARD

The original pictures of the famous Gans-Nelson fight will be shown at the old Howard beginning October 15. All the vivid scenes in connection with this memorable battle will be on top, and the fight fans will certainly be delighted with it. There has been a big question raised as to whether Nelson really fouled Gans, and the patrons of the Howard will have a fine opportunity to judge for themselves.

M'DONOUGH AND SINCLAIR DRAW

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Charley Sinclair and Mickey McDonough of Brooklyn were the star performers in a six-round bout at the Long Acre A. C. last night. Sinclair showed fine form. The fight was nothing more than a slugging bee and the members were pleased. The outcome was a draw.

STANLEY NOT COMING.

"Digger" Stanley, the English bantamweight, whom Matchmaker Murray has been trying to get to come over to this country again to meet Jimmy Walsh at the Lincoln Club, Chelsea, cabled to Murray last night that he positively refused to accept the match.

Special to the Boston American.

GARDEN CITY, N. Y., Oct. 5.—There was no record breaking on the Vanderbilt course during the practice hours of this morning. Instead of endeavoring to annihilate both distance and time, the racing men, rest and embryo, were practically well satisfied to jog along at a pace even pace providing they could remain on the oiled surface, which was in places covered with water, the result of the rain which was then, and had been falling all night long.

At 4 o'clock this morning it looked as if no practice work would be indulged in. An hour later, however, Heath, Lawwell, Christie, Shepard and Wagner were out in their racing cars, while Albert Clement and Jenatzy both came out in touring cars.

The course was in a woful condition, and especially at the several turns when the cars skidded from side to side of the road. Heath made his round in 48 minutes, while Lawwell clocked 40½ minutes and Shepard did the turn in 35½ minutes. The latter two, however, cut the course somewhat. Neither of them was going at any alarming speed when seen at different points along the course.

Although neither Wagner nor Christie were clocked, for the entire course they made the Krugs Corner turn and the straightaway at Jericho turnpike faster than did any of the other cars. The wise ones predict that Wagner is as dangerous a man as there is in the contest.

None of the American teams was seen on the course this morning, they evidently being satisfied with their previous performances. Lytle, in the Pope-Toledo, came out for a little work, but there is no chance of his being placed.

Tracy is considered as the most lucky of the American team, and his showing in practice is such as to award him a place high up in the final dash.

In practice over the course yesterday the best time was made by Dr. Wellschaft in the 120 Fiat, who was timed at Albert son's corner for one lap in 27m. 30s. He then slowed down to outwit the "clock ing" brigade at Krug's corner, who caught him in much slower time. Wellschaft did a second lap in 30m. 30s. Disrop, in the Le Dietrich, travelled a single lap in 28m., while Jenatzy, in the 120 Mercedes, and LeBlon, in the 120 Thomas, each scored in 30m.

An interesting speed duel occurred between George Heath, in the 120 Panhard, winner of the first Vanderbilt cup race, and Tracy, in the 90 Locomobile, winner of the eliminating race. The speed boat started with three in it. Tracy was just starting from Krug's corner, when Wagner, in the 120 Darracq, turned into the course, coming from Glen Cove, closely followed by Heath in the Panhard, coming from his headquarters in Garden City. Wagner threw the whole field into confusion by cutting the pursuit turnpike together until the stand was passed, when Wagner gave way to the flier. Heath and Tracy finished the lap within half a minute of each other, with Heath in the lead, their times being, respectively, 30m. and 30½m.

Other practice times were: Nazzaro, Fiat, 32½m.; Lovtgen, Mercedes, 32m.; Shepard, Hotchkiss, 30m. Slow rounds were made by Lawwell, R. Frayer-Miller and Christie. Lawwell cut the course once, and his time of 25m. 31s. caused much merriment until particulars became known.

Among the spectators were Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Thomas and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hollander. Many women were in the early morning throngs.

MILLIONAIRES' RACE IS CALLED OFF BE CAUSE OF RAIN

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Owing to the terrific downpour of rain the Vanderbilt-Whitney automobile race, which was to have taken place to-day, was called off, instead there was a race between Harry Payne Whitney and Samuel B. Stevens, a young millionaire who has carried off many prizes in automobile contests.

After having waited a reasonable time at Krug's Corners for William K. Vanderbilt to appear, Mr. Whitney said:

"Well, I guess he has decided not to race. Therefore I will start Mr. Stevens."

"How about getting up a race of our own?"

"Why, certainly," said Mr. Whitney.

A moment later, at 6:38 a. m., the two young millionaires started in their respective automobiles. Mr. Whitney climbed into the big Darracq.

The great crowd which had gathered despite the rain took their disappointment at the failure of the Vanderbilt-Whitney race to materialize very good naturedly and entered heartily into the spirit of the impromptu race between Mr. Whitney and Mr. Stevens.

They watched the two racers plugging through clouds of mud for a mile and a half up the straight road. By this time the two cars had become entirely discovered like specks and presently were lost in the grey waves of mist.

It was about at this point that the racers realized that they were trying to race under such adverse conditions, and when they reached the fork in the road, they put their cars on the Jericho turnpike, they turned their machines around and made their homes at Wheatley Hills. Up to the present writing Mr. Stevens' team seems to be the records at Krug's Corner they remained Mr. Whitney's team.

Jenatzy and Clement also went around the course in the Long Island in a recent horse race between Mr. Clement in a forty-horsepower car and Clement Bayard. They went completely around the course, Clement in 40 minutes and Jenatzy five minutes slower. Only a few of the racers went out on the course, and they merely for desultory spins.

STILL CIPHERING ON THE RULES AND FORWARD PASS

The forward pass was given a thorough tryout at the Stadium yesterday, although it is very imperfect yet and not generally understood.

Another preliminary practice the varsity eleven made for the combinations for the game with the outlanders between the officers and the team used up much his at most every time it got the ball. The forward pass was given a preference in handling this treacherous play. The second team also had a lineup in the backfield similar to the old Harvard tandem play, but, of course, there was no heavy linesman at the head of the play, as this is barred by the new rules.

The crippled squad was added to yesterday when Pierce and Inches joined the other unfortunates. Both these men are suffering from slight kicks in the legs, which should not keep them out very long. Kennard, who was off for three days, rejoined the active list yesterday, doing light work.

HUNTINGTON AVENUE GROUNDS.

Boston, Oct. 5.—After a tedious trip ahead, during which they met with no different success, owing to trying out of new players, the Boston Americans opened up a two-game series with the New York Highlanders this afternoon.

Owing to the fact that it was one of the few last opportunities to see a ball game in Boston this season, there was a large crowd on hand to see the contest. The Highlanders have just been counted out of the race for the pennant, after a most manful fight, while the Bostons have been at the bottom of the ladder practically all season, so the chances were strongly in favor of the visiting Yankee aggregation, although when they last met, the Chicklets won two out of three games from the New Yorkers.

There were many new faces to be seen in the ranks of the Bostons, and the fans came early to the park so as to size up their abilities. Wagner, who has been doing clever batting and covering second; Sweasteead, Oberlin and Kroh pitchers were some of the new ones watched by the enthusiasts.

Manager Stahl signified his intention of using Oberlin, his new twirling recruit, on the roster, while Clarke Griffith had Hoge in hand to do like stunts for his team.

MANY SHARE NATIONAL CLUB

PITTSBURG, Pa., Oct. 5.—George Dovey of St. Louis, the street car man there, is the man behind the late purchase of the Boston National League Club. This is the announcement made here last night. It was also announced early in the day that Barney Dreyfuss was one of the other big backers, but friends of Dreyfuss later said that Dreyfuss only furnished the money to help Dovey out that the colonel from that of Dovey has been published by one Pittsburg and two Louisville men. Three days ago Dovey came to Pittsburg and had a long talk with Dreyfuss, and there was a meeting with others in the office of the Pittsburg Club here, where the matter of finance was gone into. Dovey left for Boston later in the day, but not until he had admitted to a friend here that he had taken on the big end of the game at Boston. The Louisville parties interested in the new deal at Boston are the same as were interested in the Pittsburg club. A close friend of Dreyfuss said the president of the Pittsburg club had been able to take on any more baseball stock, as he is interested to a great extent here, and has $15,000 stock in the Philadelphia club.

CINCINNATI, Oct. 5.—A special telegram from New York yesterday states that John Fay, bookmaker, horse owner and turfite generally of that city, is the principal backer of Fred Tenney and Roy Thomas in the purchase of the baseball players and plant of the Boston National League Club.

The telegram has it that Fay, who is something of a fan, became interested in the Boston baseball proposition through President Pulliam of the National League. Fay and Pulliam are old friends and former citizens of Louisville, Ky. Barney Dreyfuss and the Pittsburg club and Charley Murphy of the Chicago club, both old friends of Fay, are also said to have something to do with influencing Fay to enter into baseball.

The special has it that Fay will be president of the Boston club, with Tenney as playing manager. From the same source comes the information that Hugh Wyndham, also a prominent bookmaker of London, and partner of Fay, will be a stockholder in the Boston club.

Notes of the Harness Horses

Louise G., 2.06½, pacing, made her debut as a trotter at Rochester, N. H., and performed very creditably for her initial attempt. She is the property of George Wallace, president of the Fair Association in that town.

The speed reducer and driver, Budd Doble, was nearly killed by a vicious stallion in California a few days ago. It was only through all rendered by the grooms that the stallion was finally driven off.

Dan Patch, 1.55, pacing, has increased in steadily on the increase. He has already on the 2.30 list this season Cochato, 2.11½; Kentucky Todd, 2.20, and Teddy Bootlest, 2.20½, the latter being two-year-olds. These athletes of the turf have been in their work, and to of them have beaten 2.16.

The ex-trotting queen of the turf, Nancy Hanks, 2.04, had another of her foals get a record inside of 2.10 in pacing this season. Markale, which turned the White Plains, N. Y., track in 2.18¾. Her other two with records are Admiral Dewey, 2.04¾, and Lord Roberts, 2.07¾, both trotters. She is the grandam of Yankee, 2.29¾.

It's Easy to Win Her Heart and Hand if You Go About It Right

By DOROTHY DIX

You would like to know how to win the woman you have chosen for your future wife, son, in such a manner that you may live her imagination and please her fancy, and thus win her for your own.

Even the most prosaic man has visions of himself doing the Romeo act, and finally popping the question with the grace and passion of a matinee actor.

There is something in being in love that inclines a man to poetry as the sparks fly upward, and that makes the common, every-day language of life seem inadequate to express his emotions, and the common, every-day actions of life inefficient to fill the bill.

Generally speaking, courtship is a thing that a man plans to do one way and does another.

He lies awake at nights devising tactics that he forgets to put into operation when the time comes, and memorizing poetry that slips his memory at the psychological moment, when he might quote it with good effect.

He dreams of assuming a noble and heroic attitude, firm, yet gentle, before the beloved one, and he finds himself fidgeting and carrying and doing the bidding of some little bare-eyed girl as humbly as if he was a dog allowed on sufferance around the house.

> DON'T let the girl you love make a convenience of you

A PRIMEVAL instinct from the days when a man went courting with a club and indicated his preference for a particular lady by slugging her into insensibility and hearing her off to his cave still survives in the female sex, and makes the stormy and tempestuous courtship almost invariably successful.

Women adore being wooed in whirlwind fashion.

They prefer the man who swears he cannot live without them, and who captures them by mere force of arms. The man who takes a kiss without asking for it generally gets it, while he who humbly sues for one is refused because the woman is so filled with contempt for one who throws his opportunities away that she feels the only proper person for him to kiss is his grandmother.

Be bold. Never take "no" for an answer from a woman, because she is as likely as not to mean "yes," and women love to be coerced into doing things.

We have all seen the good fellow who was so abjectly in love with some girl that he spent his money buying her candy that other men ate up and ate, and taking her to parties where she danced with other partners, and generally doing the fraternal, but none of us have ever seen this faithful devotion rewarded, unless in the end the girl married him as she had accepted his other attentions—because nobody else asked her.

> REMEMBER little courtesies that have a personal significance to her

NO man wants to be that sort of a consolation prize husband, and he makes a mistake if he ever lets a woman assume the house cat attitude toward him.

Nor is he wise to let her play fast and loose with him. Women like decision and dignity in a man, and many a one who has kept a faithful lover on the string for years, halting between "I will" and "I won't," has suddenly discovered that she was in love with him when confronted with an ultimatum that she had either to marry him in a week or let him go for good.

Be bold, but be not too bold. Nothing insults and infuriates a woman so much as for a man to take it for granted that he is such a fascinator that she could not resist him, and to assume that he has only to drop that handkerchief to have her break her neck to pick it up.

In theory, at least, men is the pursuer and woman the pursued, and he who would win his lady love must never miss and give her a run for her money.

Many a confirmed man has been led a merry dance, and at last refused when he did pop the question simply because a woman couldn't resist the temptation to administer a solar plexus blow to such vanity.

Another point in the game of hearts is attention. This is a trump card that should be played to the lady's lead. No woman can resist the man who paves her way with little courtesies that have some personal significance.

> LET your love-making be fierce and brief and interspersed with other diversions

THEREFORE, son, make a memorandum on your cuff of a woman's likes and dislikes, and act accordingly, if you would please her.

Be constant in your attentions to her, but not too constant. Don't overdo it. Many a promising match has been broken off because the woman thought the man was too much in love with her, and was terrified at the specter of wooing may be summed up in one the man before she was married to him. A little backbiting is word, fidelity, devotion and the like. Absence is the spice of life, but too much of it is like a cake made of nothing but salt. It's sticky and heavy and cloys on the palate.

There are men so buttoned that they spend every evening with the girl they are wooing, and even when they take her out they never give her a chance for a minute's conversation with anybody else.

This is a fatal mistake. It makes the woman feel as if she was a prisoner, and, no matter if one is the prisoner of love, any bonds are irksome and inspire in a high-spirited person a spirit of revolt and a desire for freedom.

In consequence thereof conduct your courtship, son, upon the homeopathic rather than the allopathic plan. Give a girl your society in broken doses. Let your love-making be hot and fierce and brief, and impressive it with other diversions.

Don't try to separate a woman from her other good friends, a promising match has been so if you intend to put yourself in comparison with them. A woman likes to feel that she has the pick of the lot, and that she could have any man she wanted.

Above all, don't be terrified at the specter of wooing may be summed up in one word, and that word is work, and go for it. And go for it as long as you want, and go for it. And go for it as long as you want, and go for it.

WOMEN ADORE BEING WOOED IN WHIRLWIND FASHION

Girls Who Drink Always Lose the Respect of Men

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am a young lady and would like to know if it is proper for me to drink cocktails when I dine out in public. Is young man thinks it very unladylike, but I have a great many times drinking them. Kindly give me your opinion on advice, as it is much needed by a few girls that I know of.

ROSE.

A YOUNG girl drinking cocktails is one of the saddest sights in the world.

It makes no difference whether the drinking is done in public or at home it is equally harmful. It is a menace to health, to morals and to looks.

There is not one person in all the world improved by drinking. It brings forward every bad quality and blurs every good one.

A young girl should be clear of eye. The only spirits she needs are those of youth and health.

But to see her with flushed face, wandering eyes and thickened speech is enough to make one's heart ache.

And, girls, that is what happens when you drink intoxicants. Your heads are not strong and you cannot drink without showing the effects in a way that is most unattractive.

Don't delude yourselves with the idea that it enhances your charms in men's eyes. No man who is worth being left with would ever urge a young girl to drink.

It may be hard to refuse when you are offered drinking, but in the long run you will be, oh, so glad that you have had the strength of mind to be firm.

Health is the sort of thing that does not stand still. People either give it up or they grow to lose it.

Give it up—or, what is better still, never begin it.

It is very easy to get into the way of taking a glass of beer or a little whiskey and seltzer, but the first thing you know you will have grown to depend on stimulants. By that time the will has become weakened and the fight will be long and hard.

Dear girls, keep away from stimulants; don't take even the smallest drink. Your whole life will be ruined if drink gets the better of you.

Of course, you feel strong to resist and quite confident that you never would succumb, but you cannot tell what lies dormant in your nature. A little indulgence might possibly develop into a full-fledged passion for drink.

Drink positively ruins a woman's looks. It coarsens her skin, bloats her features and dulls her eyes.

No man who is worth having a young girl taking things to drink would want to marry her; he would be afraid to run the risk of her growing too fond of stimulants.

Don't say you will give it up next week or tomorrow; give it up today.

It may be a hard fight, but keep at it until you have conquered, for if you don't conquer it, it is bound to conquer you.

Cook Book for Best "Economy" Recipes

THE writer of every recipe printed below receives a copy of the BOSTON AMERICAN Economy Cook Book, a substantial indexed blankbook of 120 pages, bound in heavy oilcloth, especially designed to preserve these recipe gems in permanent form.

Write out your favorite household and cooking secrets, and win one of these books. They are well worth having.

STEAMED BROWN BREAD

TWO cups of meal, one cup of flour, two cups of sweet milk, one cup of sour milk, one spoonful of molasses, two spoonfuls of sugar, one teaspoonful of soda, one teaspoonful salt. Steam three hours in a two-quart pail. This is fine.

OLIVE MOULTON.

No. 795 Washington street, Boston.

AMERICAN CREAM

ONE pint of milk, one envelope of Nelsons gelatine, yolks of two eggs beaten with two tablespoons of sugar. When the milk is boiling hot stir in slowly the gelatine then add the yolks and sugar, a little salt and half one almond, stirring constantly. Remove from fire, stir in the whites of eggs beaten with two tablespoons of sugar, and pour to harden. Serve with whipped cream or without.

GERTRUDE DENNISON.

No. 38 Park street, Dorchester.

ENGLISH NEGUS

ONE quart of water, two and one-half pounds sugar, rind of one orange, one lemon, sliced. Pour over this three quarts boiling water, one-half nutmeg, grated, stick cinnamon; drink with ice.

Spoon for MRS. F. M. PROCTOR.

TOMATO MARMALADE

SEVEN pounds ripe tomatoes, pared and sliced, four pounds granulated sugar, two lemons sliced. Cook slowly until jelly forms, stirring often to prevent burning.

Proctor, Vt. MRS. L. L. BROUGH.

SPICED PEACHES

EIGHT pounds of peaches (after they are pared), four pounds of sugar, one quart vinegar, one-half ounce of cloves, one-half ounce cinnamon, one-quarter ounce of mace. Let the vinegar and spices, but leave whole; then place in a stone jar and pour over them the vinegar boiling hot. Two days after drain syrup with have formed; pour it off, bring it to a boil and pour over the peaches again. Repeat this for five mornings, cover up the jar closely and the peaches will keep a year or more.

"SHADOWS OF NEW YORK"

Copyright 1906, by American Journal Examiner

"A" at you?" panted Jim. He had selected the first weapon to hand in the shape of a big heavy brass knocker; he held it up threateningly. "You jest try a finger on me; I promise you I won't miss."

And Rumfit paused; it was an ugly antagonist, the big man was on him.

"Now I've got you!" cried the fat man vindictively, aiming a savage blow at the boy.

In his terror Jim struggled desperately; Rumfit had more of a handful than he had bargained for, for suddenly, seeing his opportunity, the boy made a frantic plunge between his captor's legs, taking Rumfit completely by surprise and succeeding in getting off his feet by this unexpected manoeuvre, and then down scurried boy and man in a heap on the broken ease or the sword-box, which was perhaps the most unenviable place he could have chosen—and Jim found himself free.

Mr. Rumfit made a furious dash for the boy, but Jim slipped past her, and before she could turn he had flung open the door through the door into the shop, hotly pursued by the infuriated Mrs. Rumfit.

But Jim was desperate; he knew what was at stake and he escaped her.

He raced through the store, pulling over the big glass cases as he passed, which crashed down in front of Mrs. Rumfit, obstructing her progress; and Jim was out into the street like the wind, where the two men in plain clothes were awaiting his return, before the angry woman reached the door.

"You took as though things had been rough, Jim," said the inspector, who had bought the boy dinner. "But first of all, did you get what you went for?"

"Yes," said Jim breathlessly, "in a corner in the back room, among a heap of rubbish, I found the sword in question."

"There's one thing I didn't tell you," he added, "and that is that Mrs. Rumfit's husband was in the hands of the gang there, and for the present is out of the way of giving information now, since he had learned that discretion is the better part of valor in the country.

New Evidence

"I didn't speak of it before, bocos—because one of them who was mixed up in it was known to me—but I've got a clue to work upon now."

Quickly Jim explained about his meeting with Mr. Parslow, who had relieved him of the diamond he was taking back to its lawful owner, and his subsequent talk with Jarman.

"Parslow—of Bensonhurst?" said the inspector, with an expression in his face that plainly showed he had read the newspapers, my lady!"

"Not often. Haven't seen one since I was in Yonkers."

WANTS TO KNOW

EIGHTEEN months between each birth, and Jane must have eighteen months old when second was born. Fourteen births after, with eighteen months between, would make 270 months, making Jane's age twenty-two years six months, and the youngest child is two years and nine months. Please let me know if correct.

MADAM ETTA.

Box 54, Ouset.

RIGHT OR WRONG

JANE SYMOND'S age on the day she was on the witness stand was 25 years 8 months 27 weeks and 2 days. Her sister Eva's was 3 years 2 months, 2 weeks and 2 days. Is this answer right or wrong?

P. QUINN.

No. 161 Prospect street, Somerville.

LOTS OF FIGURING

HERE is my solution: There are fourteen intervals between the 15th of each days. Therefore, 14x14 years = 21 years 14x7 years 7 months 15 days = 21 years +28 years 7 months 15 days—Jane's age.

Fort Andrew, Boston Harbor. P. MODA.

Therefore Jane is twenty-four years old. Look it up on the birth records and see.

How Old Is Jane? Can You Solve It?

JANE seems to be about the most amazing witness that ever appeared in court. There's a prodigious amount of argument about the poor girl's age.

Everybody wants to settle it one way or the other. Can you help the court to the solution? Just think it over, then try mental arithmetic, figures, algebra or progression, and solve it for us.

Jane simply told the judge that she was the eldest of fifteen children, who had been born at intervals of exactly a year and a half, and that she was eight times as old as her youngest sister, Eva.

And ever since this happened there has been the greatest time trying to find out how old Jane is. See if you can figure it out, and then send your answer to Puzzle Editor, BOSTON AMERICAN, No. 80 Summer street, Boston.

SAYS JANE IS 24

HERE is Jane's age. Let x equal Eva's age. Then 8x equal Jane's age. x plus 21 equals Jane's age, because there are 21 years difference between Jane's and Eva's ages. Therefore 8x equals x plus 21; 7x equals 21; x equals 3; 8x equals 24.

Pimples and Blackheads.

Our New Remedy Produces a Cure in Half the Usual Time.

PIMPLES and blackheads have been described as "internal dirt," and this description contains much truth. You cannot lay claim to a high degree of refinement while your face is covered with disgusting blemishes.

In business, or in society, a man or woman finds a pimply face to be a bar to success. In business the best positions go to the men of good facial appearance, and in society the woman with a pimply face finds her circle of friends small indeed.

For 30 years the Woodbury Institute has successfully treated this trouble, and opened the doors of success to thousands and thousands of afflicted people who had almost despaired of relief. Our new and perfect treatment now makes a cure possible in half the time formerly required and success is assured in every case.

Write for the question blank and full information; or, better still, call and talk with one of our specialists. Consultation free.

Josiah Quincy's Last Effort Was a Failure

He Hoped to Set Democrats Against Democrats for the Purpose of DEFEATING MORAN

The Democrats of Massachusetts, by their delegates to a State convention, have unanimously endorsed the candidacy of John B. Moran for Governor and E. Gerry Brown for Lieutenant-Governor, the Independence League candidates for those offices.

John B. Moran and E. Gerry Brown, and their associates on the ticket, are the candidates of the real Democracy of Massachusetts.

It is to be expected that every wile known to corporations and their political tools will be exercised to defeat them. It is for the people to see to it that these tricks do NOT succeed, that their SOLID VOTE is cast for Moran and Brown.

There is an old saying among huntsmen that a wild animal is never so dangerous as when at bay, and in his death throes he makes a last flash at his enemies.

Something akin to that condition came to pass at yesterday's Democratic convention, when an attempt was made by the defeated, discredited and corporation-serving Quincy-Gaston machine to inject into the contest of this year in Massachusetts the National issues of the future, in the hope that Democrats could be set against Democrats and that by this action the chances of the ticket's success at the polls could be lessened.

The enthusiasm of Josiah Quincy, John A. Sullivan and their political associates in the Plunderbund over the attempt to create an impression that National issues are involved in the present campaign for decent government in Massachusetts was too marked to leave any doubt as to the purpose of the demonstration.

You may depend upon it—not only to-day but until the end of this campaign—that whatever moves Mr. Quincy, Mr. Gaston, Mr. Sullivan and the rest of the discredited ex-leaders make, professedly for Democratic success, THESE MOVES ARE REALLY INTENDED TO DEFEAT JOHN B. MORAN, E. GERRY BROWN and the other candidates upon the ticket with them.

Mr. Quincy's strategy of yesterday, in which he tried to cast dissension into the ranks of the people, will fail. The voters—who are going to elect John B. Moran, E. Gerry Brown and the rest of the Independence League and Democratic ticket—will not allow Mr. Quincy to set them at each other, in the hope that he can thus encompass the election of Guild and Draper and his own return to misused power.

Voters of Massachusetts, you have before you a sharp, bitter contest. The forces of predatory wealth, united in the persons of Lodge and Gaston as strongly as, in New York, they are united by Morgan and Belmont, will leave no trick unplayed to defeat you. You must STAND TOGETHER.

Josiah Quincy may think that he succeeded yesterday in the game he played. He hoped to set Moran men against Moran men and thus bring about the defeat of the candidate.

But Josiah Quincy really failed. This newspaper, for one, will not tolerate the injection into this campaign of any issue intended to disrupt the forces that are fighting for popular government.

The Plunderbund will try again the same game of setting Democrats against Democrats between now and election. It must not be allowed to succeed.

John B. Moran will be the next Governor of Massachusetts.

E. Gerry Brown will be the next Lieutenant-Governor of Massachusetts.

This result will be accomplished NOT by the assistance of Mr. Quincy, Mr. Sullivan, Mr. Gaston and their Trust fellow-servants, but IN SPITE of their thinly veiled and treacherous opposition.

With the Dirt from Your Cellar Build Your House

That Will Soon Be the Rule—In Sandy Soil, Anyhow

News about the development in cement buildings is good news, BECAUSE IT MEANS ADDITION TO THE WEALTH AND THE FACILITIES OF HUMAN BEINGS.

It is a fact that, in sandy soil at least, the sand and pebbles taken out of the cellar can be mixed with cement, and made into building blocks or into walls, to construct the house above the cellar.

There is no doubt whatever that wood, cut stone and brick are to be largely if not entirely replaced by a cheaper building material made of cement, sand, pebbles, or broken stone mixed.

There will be industrial agitation in the change, as there always is. But the bricklayers, a powerful body, have already taken steps to protect their interests, and their good wages. We have no doubt that they will succeed, that they will exercise firmness and good sense in the matter, and that the great addition to buildings, which we shall owe to improved rapid transit and to the new system of cement structure, will mean a great addition in the prosperity of skilled mechanics also.

There is no limit to the visible supply of cement—it can be made in quantities unlimited.

Edison has predicted that before long houses will be made in moulds, an entire dwelling will be cast in one solid piece of cement. This is not by any means visionary. The realization of the idea will mean houses infinitely cheaper than at present.

This generation should live to see enormous, splendid, well built and equipped palaces of decorated cement standing in the centre of large parks easily accessible by quick electric transportation.

The first man to utilize this idea, the first railroad corporation to utilize it, SINCE WE MUST DEPEND UPON CORPORATIONS IN THESE DAYS, will add greatly to its own profits and to its usefulness in the world.

Our old ancestors used to live in holes in the ground. We, their successors, shall soon be taking that ground and building it up into big light palaces in which we shall live under very different circumstances.

Incidentally, we would advise readers who may own plots of sandy, gravelly soil to look into the possibility of the manufacture of building blocks for themselves. There may be a chance to add to their own prosperity and also to the useful wealth of the country by intelligent, quick action.

It is some comfort to know, by the way, that the sudden development of cement buildings has had a beneficial effect upon the trust that has controlled the output of brick—the price of the latter having been reduced some ninety per cent. quite recently, and being threatened with further reduction soon.

Little by little, science may help us to fight the trusts, even if we don't develop political common sense enough to defend ourselves.

Good roads and the automobile combined ought to damage the Railroad Trust severely. Cement buildings threaten the monopoly of the Brick Trust and the trusts dealing in construction steel.

There is no doubt that man will find IN HIS MIND, HIS INVENTIVE FACULTY, a remedy for his temporary troubles.

ARITHMETIC.

ARITHMETIC is the saim as Numbers, thats what we call it in our room at skool. It is the sience of counting up how much munny you have at the end of the week, etc.

It is also used for politicks & other things, for instans, if you say Mister Guild can carry 1-3 of a state for Guvnor, that is arithmetick, if you say he can carry 2-3 of a state, that is journalism.

My pa & Ma uses arithmetic onst a week, when Pa comz hoam from the office on Pay Day. Ma says Well, let us see, you git sixty (60) dollars a weak & yure carfare hoam was 5 cents. 5 cents from sixty (60) dollars leaves $59.95. I see, however, Ma tells Pa, that you have in yure possesshun only 42.13 dollars, then Pa begins to laff & says Tush Tush. As we jurney thru life let us live by the way, but Ma says Not for Sweeny, you git 60 dollars a weak & 60 dollars I must have, then I have to git out of the room, beekaus things fly around too much when Pa and Ma does arithmetic.

thats all about arithmetic.

GEOGRAPHY.

Joggafry is the study of whare the different lands in this world are, also the principul rivers & voating precincts, when you are lerning Joggrafy you have to lern all the statts and thare principul products, & you have to lern by what they are bounded or what is next to them, for instans, Boston is bounded on the East by the Atlantick Oshun, & on the west by the United States, next we have Chelsea, whare is Chelsea & ekko ansers Whare?

the nicest thing about joggafry is the ansbunt countrys we lern about, we have Egypt whare Cleopatry spent the common peeples munny on Mark Antony et al, & we have Greece whare Saffo luvd & sung & whare Akilleus got plugged in the heel with a arrow, & we have Roam, whare Horashus kept the bridge. Whare is Greece? gone forever & ever.

If thare is moar about joggafry I dont kno it.

ANGEL or DEMON

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

(REPRINTED BY REQUEST)

Copyright, 1906, by American-Journal-Examiner

ELLA WHEELER WILCOX

YOU call me an angel of love and of light,
A being of goodness and heavenly fire,
Sent out from God's kingdom to guide you aright
In paths where your spirit may mount and aspire.
You say that I glow like a star on its course,
Like a ray from the altar, a spark from the source.

Now, list to my answer, let all the world hear it:
I speak unafraid what I know to be true:
A pure, faithful love is the creative spirit
That makes women angels. I live but in you.
We are bound soul to soul by life's holiest laws,
And if I am an angel, why, you are the cause.

As my ship skims the sea I look up from her deck.
Fair, firm at the wheel shines love's beautiful form:
And shall I scorn the barque that last night went to wreck,
By the pilot abandoned to darkness and storm?
My craft was no stancher; she, too, had been lost
Had the wheelman deserted or slept at his post,

I laid down the wealth of my soul at your feet
(Some woman does this for some man every day).
No desperate creature that walks in the street
Has a wickeder heart than I might have, I say.
Had you wantonly misused the treasures you won,
As so many men with heart riches have done.

This fire from God's altar, this holy love flame
That burns like sweet incense for you,
Might now be a wild conflagration of shame,
Had you tortured my heart or been base or untrue;
For angels and devils are cast in one mould,
Till love guides them upward or downward, I hold.

I tell you, the women who make fervent wives
And sweet tender mothers, had fate been less fair
Are the women that might have abandoned their lives
To the madness that springs from and ends in despair.
As the fire on the hearth, which shed brightness around,
Neglected may level the walls to the ground.

The world makes grave errors in judging these things:
Great good and great evil are born in one breast;
Love horns us and hoofs us, or gives us our wings,
And the best could be worst and the worst could be best.
You may thank your own worth for what I grew to be,
For the demon lurked under the angel in me!

A Maine Lumberman and What He Did

By Rev. Thomas B. Gregory

AS soon as the terms of the Treaty of Utrecht (1713) were known, France began fortifying her one naval depot on this continent—Louisbourg, the "Gibraltar of America." For twenty-five years the work went on. Over six millions of dollars were spent. The best engineers in the world taxed their wits to the utmost to make the fortress impregnable.

In 1744 the long peace between England and France came to an end, and the next year Governor Shirley, of Massachusetts, somehow got hold of "one of the most audacious conceptions that ever entered the brain of man."

The conception was none other than that of the capture of Louisburg.

On March 24, 1745, the fleet, with some forty-five hundred men and thirty-five cannon, set sail from Nantasket Roads, and by the 30th of April they were ready for business at Louisburg.

The army was largely recruited from unemployed fishermen in the seacoast towns of New England, and was commanded by one William Pepperell, a Maine lumberman, who carried on, along with his lumber getting, a large mercantile business at his home in Kittery.

Pepperell was rich and had lots of brains, but he was woefully illiterate and knew absolutely nothing about things military. But he could fight, and to the task of taking the Gibraltar of America he applied himself with dogged resolution.

With his resolute New Englanders he took one after another of the lines of defence, "until on the 16th of June, 1745, the great fortress actually surrendered to the assemblage of farmers and fishermen, led by the lumber merchant, and Pepperell had the satisfaction of receiving the keys of Louisburg in his hand."
